Media Information

The Cleveland Cavaliers appreciate the fair and accurate coverage afforded the club in the past and look forward to assisting you again this year. In an effort to continue to provide a professional working environment, the Cavs have established the following guidelines for the season:

Credentials: The only season credentials that will be honored at The Coliseum are NBA media passes, Cavalier season credentials, and Professional Basketball Writers Association of America passes. Each of those credentials will admit the bearer to The Coliseum, the press lounge and work area, press row, the upper press box, and both locker rooms. However, those individuals who hold a season pass should call the Cavs' PR Department no later than 5:00 p.m. the day before a game (and 5:00 p.m. on Friday for a weekend game) to reserve a seat on press row.

Individual single game press and photo credentials can be secured by accredited members of the media by calling the Cavs' PR office no later than 5:00 p.m. the day before a game (and 5:00 p.m. Friday for a weekend game). Single game credentials can be picked up at the press gate, located at the Northeast corner of The Coliseum.

It is recommended that credentials be visibly worn in The Coliseum to facilitate proper access to designated areas. In all cases, season and single game credentials are non-transferable and any unauthorized use will subject the bearer to ejection from The Coliseum and the forfeiture of the credential.

Also, no autographs are allowed during media access periods.

Press Gate: The press gate is located at the Northeast corner of The Coliseum. All members of the media must enter the building through this entrance. NBA, PBWAA, and Cavalier season passes will be honored for admittance, and single game credentials will be left at the press gate for pickup.

Press Room: The press room housing the lounge and work area, is located on the floor level underneath the East stands and is accessible only with a valid credential. The room is open 90 minutes before game time, throughout the game itself, and after the game until the last member of the media is finished working.

In order to provide the proper working environment, friends, relatives, or guests of the media will not be permitted access to the press room. In order to avoid potential embarrassing situations, please do not ask the Cavs' PR staff to make any exceptions, as this rule will be strictly enforced.

The press work area is equipped with electrical outlets. In addition, the Cavs have placed telephones for use by the media in the room. Individuals using those phones should make all calls on a collect, third-person, or credit card basis.

Services: A pre-game meal will be served in the dining area, located in the backstage area. In addition, food and beverages will be available at halftime and after the conclusion of the game in the press room.

Game notes, media guides, running sheets, and a limited number of programs will be available in the lounge before the start of the game. In addition, play-by-play sheets, quarter, halftime and final box scores, and postgame notes and quotes will be placed in the lounge area and will be available after the game. Stat monitors, which also show the inhouse TV feed, are available on press row, in the press box and in the press room.

The Cavs will provide complimentary fax service to those members of the media who request it. Please contact the Cavs' PR staff as far in advance as possible.

Courtside: All members of the media will be seated at either the courtside press table running along the East side of the floor, or in the upper Press Box located in Section 233 or 234. All seats are reserved, with an appropriate name tag for all members of the media placed at each location. There are electrical outlets at all locations, and telephones are located at various points along press row and in the press box.

All members of the media who possess a season credential should call the Cavs' PR Department before each game they cover in order to insure a reserved seat.

Services provided at courtside and in the Press Box include play-by-play sheets, quarter, halftime and final box scores, flash stats, out of town scores, and refreshments. It would be appreciated if post-game stories could be written and filed in the press room or in the press box, and not courtside, to facilitate any changeover activities in The Coliseum.

TV and Radio: Visiting television broadcast positions will be courtside, adjacent to the visitors' bench. Radio broadcast positions will be in the press box in Section 233. If statisticians are desired, please make arrangements with the Cavs' PR staff at least 24 hours before game time. Once those arrangements are made, the statistician must be paid whether or not he is used. The Cavs also will be pleased to arrange for pregame, halftime, or postgame interview guests, according to NBA guidelines.

Photographers: Limited space is available at each end of the court for both television and still photographers. They are asked to keep off of the side courts and to be considerate of the season ticket holders seated directly behind them. Only television photographers doing post-game interviews will have access to locker room areas. Each photographer must be on assignment from a recognized news source; free-lance photographers will not be issued credentials. Also, photographers are asked to wear rubber-soled shoes.

Locker Room: In accordance with NBA policy, the Cavs and visitors locker rooms will be open to members of the media up to 45 minutes before game time and ten minutes after the end of the game. Only working members of the press with valid credentials will be admitted to the locker rooms. Both locker rooms are located by the security entrance of The Coliseum in the Northeast corner of the building.

Complimentary Tickets/Parking Passes: A limited number of complimentary tickets are available on a single game basis from the Cavs' PR Department. Unfortunately, all requests can not be honored. There are limitations to the number of tickets allotted each request, and all requests should be made no later than 5:00 p.m. the day before a game (and 5:00 p.m. Friday for a weekend game). Comp tickets will be left at the press game for pickup.

The press parking area is in the Northeast portion of the parking lot, near the press gate, and those members of the media who hold a season parking pass should park in that area.

The Cavaliers will provide single game parking passes to those members of the media who call the Cavs' PR Department prior to 5:00 p.m. the day before a game (and 5:00 p.m. Friday for a weekend game).

Entrance to the press parking area is via the middle entrance of The Coliseum's parking lot. Each person who is granted a single-game parking pass will have their name and affiliation left at the parking entrance.

Transportation: There is limited, if any, public transportation to The Coliseum. The Cavs will be pleased to arrange transportation to and from The Coliseum for any member of the media who requests it. Please notify the Cavs' PR Department as far in advance as possible if such arrangements are needed.

Thank you for your cooperation.

The Administration

GORDON GUND

Chairman of the Board

Rebuilding professional sports franchises is not an easy task to accomplish. But Gordon Gund, owner of the Cleveland Cavaliers, has done that not just once, but with two different teams in two different sports.

Eight seasons ago, it looked like the Cavaliers might be headed out of Northeast Ohio until Gordon, a 52-year-old native of Cleveland, and his brother George stepped in to purchase the club at the last minute, keeping the team at The Coliseum.

As a former co-owner with George of the Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League, Gordon and his brother were instrumental in building the franchise before its eventual sale in the spring of 1990. At that time, Gordon and George were granted an NHL expansion team which began play as the San Jose Sharks for the 1991-92 season.

The Gundys have also presided over the resurgence of The Coliseum, the Cavs' home court, following their acquisition of the facility in 1981. Since then, the building has set records in both attendance and bookings while the Cavs have recorded one of the largest increases in home attendance in the NBA over the last eight seasons. The Cavs average home attendance increased in each of the first six seasons under the Gundys, including an all-time franchise high average of 17,827 in 1988-89. Overall, Cavs home attendance has increased in excess of 300% over the last eight seasons, as it has climbed from 3,916 per game in the 1982-83 season to 16,522 in 1991-92. Over the last four seasons, the Cavaliers have recorded the four highest attendance totals in franchise history.

That expertise has been evident in Gordon's other interests as well. He serves as the President and Chief Executive Officer of Gund Investment Corporation, which oversees diversified investment activities. He is a general partner of GUS Enterprises, which is involved in real estate development. Gordon is Chairman and principal owner of Nationwide Advertising Service, Inc. based in Cleveland, an agency specializing in recruitment advertising, with 35 offices throughout North America. Gordon also is a director of the Kellogg Company of Battle Creek, Michigan, and of Corning, Incorporated of Corning, New York.

Gordon also devotes a great deal of energy to national charitable and philanthropic causes. In 1971, he was a member of the founding group of the R.P. Foundation Fighting Blindness, headquartered in Baltimore, Maryland and he is now its National Chairman. This foundation is dedicated to finding a treatment and/or cure for retinitis pigmentosa and allied degenerative diseases of the retina which as a group are the leading cause of blindness and deaf-blindness in the United States today. The RP Foundation has 55 affiliates in 32 states and the District of Columbia and 23 international affiliates.

Gordon was formerly a member of the National Advisory Eye Council, which has the responsibility for the distribution and direction of federal funds available for eye research nationally. He is President and Trustee of the Gund Collection of Western Art, a collection of 70 works of art, representing some of the most recognized American western artists, including Remington, Russell, and Bierstadt. Gordon recently retired as President of the Board of Trustees of his alma mater, Groton School in Groton, Massachusetts and received the Distinguished Grotarian Award. In addition, he received the Seymour Preston Award from the Council for Advancement and Support of Education, for his work with the Groton School Board of Trustees.

Along with his brother, Gordon received the prestigious 1984 Jesse Owens "Pride of Cleveland Award", given to the Gundys by the Sports Media Association of Cleveland and Ohio (S.M.A.C.O.), in recognition of their outstanding leadership of both the Cavs and The Coliseum and for their positive impact on the Northeast Ohio community. The Gundys were also honored by Stouffer Tower City Plaza Hotel in 1988 when one of its meeting rooms was named after the Gundys as professional team owners in Cleveland. In December 1989, Gordon received Town & Country magazine's Generous American Award, and in June 1990, he was honored by the American Academy of Achievement as a recipient of the Golden Plate Award.

Gordon is a graduate of Harvard University and has an honorary doctorate from the University of Maryland.

GEORGE GUND III

Senior Vice Chairman

Few sports executives can match the record of success in the areas of sports, entertainment and business that George Gund and his brother Gordon have demonstrated. George, a 55-year-old native of Cleveland, serves as Senior Vice Chairman of the Board for the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Since George and Gordon purchased the Cavs eight years ago, the team has qualified for the playoffs in the 1984-85, 1987-88, 1988-89, 1989-90, and 1991-92 seasons. The 1991-92 post-season appearance was just the eighth in the 22-year history of the franchise, but the fifth in the last eight campaigns for the Cavs. Under the direction of George and his brother Gordon, the Cavs acquired the number one selection in the 1986 NBA College Draft and selected 7-foot center Brad Daugherty. It marked the first time that the Cavs possessed the first pick in the draft since Austin Carr was selected in 1971.

As a former co-owner with Gordon of the Minnesota North Stars, George also guided the rebirth of professional hockey in Minnesota. The North Stars reached the Stanley Cup Finals in 1981 and the semi-finals on two other occasions under the Gund's leadership while developing an extensive following throughout the state of Minnesota. In the spring of 1990, George and Gordon sold the North Stars and acquired an NHL expansion team. The San Jose Sharks began play in the Bay Area for the 1991-92 season.

Since 1981, when George and Gordon became the co-owners of The Coliseum, the Cavs' home court, the facility has become one of the most successful of its kind in the nation. The Coliseum has increased its revenue, attendance and booking dates since its purchase by the Gund's, while setting records in all three areas. In addition, under the Gund's direction, the Cavs over the past eight seasons have enjoyed one of the largest increases in home attendance in the NBA.

George's sports background is rooted in Cleveland, where he first played hockey as a youngster. He then organized the first hockey team at Case Western Reserve University, and went on to play for the Cleveland Falcons, and other city league teams in San Francisco, Seattle, and Sun Valley.

In addition, he is very active in the promotion of amateur hockey in the United States and serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the U.S. Hockey Hall of Fame. He is a member of the International Council for U.S.A. Hockey and has served on the Olympic Hockey Selection Committee in 1984, 1988, and 1992.

Gund served as a Director of the AmeriTrust Company in Cleveland for 17 years, and is a past Board member of the Redwood Bank in San Francisco. Along with real estate interests in the Bay area and Port Angeles, Washington, he has a cattle ranch in Lee, Nevada. He was a founding shareholder and past Chairman of the Board of the Rusty Scupper Restaurant chain. He also is an importer and distributor of foreign films and he has been the Chairman of the Board of the San Francisco International Film Festival since 1973.

Gund supports a variety of film-related organizations including the Pacific Film Archive at the University of California at Berkeley, the Telluride and Cleveland International Film Festivals, and the Independent Feature Project, while also being a member of the Ohio Film Bureau. In 1986 he became a member of the Board of Trustees of the Sundance Institute in Utah. Gund supports many other cultural organizations across the country, as well. He is a Trustee of the George Gund Foundation and the Gund Collection of Western Art, and is a member of the Collectors Committee of the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, and the International Council of The Museum of Modern Art in New York.

In addition, George, along with his brother, was named the 1984 recipient of the prestigious Jesse Owens "Pride of Cleveland Award," given by the Sports Media Association of Cleveland and Ohio (S.M.A.C.O.) for the Gund's outstanding leadership of both the Cavs and The Coliseum and for their positive impact on the Northeast Ohio community.

JOHN W. GRAHAM

Chief Executive Officer

John W. Graham has been long associated with the Cleveland Cavaliers and The Coliseum, having most recently served as President of C.C.M.C. (Cavs Coliseum Management Company) from December, 1988 until August, 1990, when he was named Chief Executive Officer. He remains a member of the Board of Directors.

Graham, who was part of the founding group of the Cavs in 1970, was named President of The Coliseum in 1981 and he served briefly as President of the Cavs after the Gund brothers purchased the team in 1983. He has been actively involved with The Coliseum since its opening in 1974.

Graham also serves as Chief Executive Officer of Nationwide Advertising Service, Inc. (NAS), a position he has held since 1983. NAS, the largest advertising agency in the state of Ohio and the largest agency of its kind in the world, has been headquartered in Cleveland for over 40 years. NAS, which is also owned by Cavs owner Gordon Gund and his brother George, specializes in recruitment advertising and has 35 offices throughout North America with an affiliation in London. NAS has been included in the Weatherhead 100 — a listing of the 100 fastest growing firms in Northeast Ohio.

Graham was recognized on the list of "Greater Cleveland 100 Top Entrepreneurs" in 1987, 1988 and 1989. He is a graduate of the Leadership Cleveland Program and many professional organizations including the President's Association of the American Management Association, the principal member of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, the International Association of Auditorium Managers, and the Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers. His civic activities include being a member of the Board of Directors of the Visiting Nurse Association of Cleveland, Malone College and the steering committee for the New Cleveland Campaign, as well as involvement with many other organizations.

Graham, a native of Northwest Pennsylvania, became involved at the old Cleveland Arena while attending Fenn College (Cleveland State University). Beginning in a financial capacity in 1969, he spent the next 15 years in the evolution of the sports and entertainment aspects of the Arena, Cleveland Barons (AHL & NHL), the Cavaliers, Cleveland Crusaders (WHA) and The Coliseum.

John and his wife Linda are the parents of four children — Laura, Kevin, Kimberly and Karen.

TOM CHESTNUT

President and Chief Operating Officer

In August, 1990, Tom Chestnut was named President and Chief Operating Officer of the Cavs/Coliseum Management Company (C.C.M.C.) and a member of the Board of Directors. As President and C.O.O., he has the overall operating responsibility for the Cavs and The Coliseum.

Chestnut came to the Cavs from SportsChannel, where he was Senior Vice President of Strategy and Development. In that position, Chestnut was responsible for helping to establish regional sports networks in major markets throughout the country, and was instrumental in creating SportsChannel America, a new national cable network. Prior to that, Chestnut served as Vice President and General Manager of SportsChannel New York, the flagship of SportsChannel's ten regional sports networks. Chestnut began his business career by serving in a succession of marketing positions at James River Corp., American Can Company and Procter & Gamble.

According to Chestnut, the CAVS are committed to providing their fans with the best possible entertainment experience, both on and off the court. The CAVS believe that team performance can be directly affected by the size and excitement of the home crowd, and that one of the most important elements in building a championship team is keeping The Coliseum filled with cheering and satisfied fans. The entire CAVS organization works hard to make the experience of attending a CAVS game at The Coliseum a positive one. From creating attractive ticket plans to making the on-court presentation of every game as exciting as possible, the CAVS are dedicated to maximizing the entertainment value for their fans.

As the economics of sports become more challenging, the Cavs are responding by developing innovative programs to provide greater service to sponsors and area business partners. The CAVS are able to offer a full spectrum of marketing opportunities for sponsors, including commercial time in CAVS TV games, radio spots in the CAVS 40 station network, in-arena signage at The Coliseum, and unique and proprietary roles in the many elements of CAVS game programming. By working with interested companies in a consultant-type fashion, the CAVS are able to tailor each sponsorship to the specific needs of each client. The CAVS have also developed a multi-faceted community relations program which provides a broad range of benefits to area youth and educational efforts. Many of these initiatives offer exciting sponsorship opportunities for civic-minded companies to become involved.

In addition to the CAVS, Chestnut also oversees the varied activities that are involved in the operation and promotion of a multi-purpose facility such as The Coliseum. As a result of integrating the building and the team into one cohesive unit, The Coliseum has become one of the greatest entertainment centers in the country—one which offers residents of Northeastern Ohio the widest variety of sports and entertainment events in the best possible surroundings.

Chestnut has a B.A. degree in English from Princeton University. He completed three years of postgraduate studies in Europe, where he played professional basketball. Tom and his wife Laura have two children, Taylor, age 4 and, Whitney, age 6.

WAYNE EMBRY

Executive Vice President and General Manager

Having been chosen by a vote of NBA executives as The Sporting News 1991-92 NBA Executive of the Year, is further evidence of the respect for Wayne Embry around the National Basketball Association. Indeed, Wayne Embry's leadership and dedication to the game of basketball have established him as one of the most respected executives in the NBA. In addition, his intelligence and keen business sense have escalated him into one of the Midwest's leading executives, while his recognition of the needs of the community has made him a top civic leader.

In June of 1986, Embry became Vice President and General Manager of the Cleveland Cavaliers. He directs the daily basketball operations of the franchise, including the screening, interviewing, hiring and evaluation of administrative, coaching and player personnel. He functions as the ultimate decision-maker on all trades and player procurement, negotiates all player contracts, and manages the franchise's annual basketball operations budget. Behind Embry, the Cavs have surfaced as a contender and interest in the team is at a peak as evidenced by the dramatic increase in attendance during his tenure.

Having completed his sixth season with the Cavs by gaining a berth in the 1992 Eastern Conference Finals, Wayne Embry has made great progress toward completing the challenge of ensuring that the Cleveland Cavaliers continue with their plan to bring an NBA Title to the fans of Northeast Ohio. "I think you have to establish a goal of winning the NBA Championship," said Embry at the time of his hiring. "If you establish a goal of just making the playoffs and you fall short of that, you're nowhere. You win championships with character; you win games with athletic ability."

Prior to joining the Cavaliers, Embry served the Indiana Pacers for one year as a consultant and Vice President as well as being a member of the Pacers Board of Directors. He assisted the Pacers in negotiating player contracts and was instrumental in the Pacers 1986 NBA Draft.

He served as Vice President and Consultant for the Milwaukee Bucks from 1977-85, while serving as President of the Michael Alan Lewis Company, which converts and fabricates fiberboard paper, insulation, and poly products for the automotive industry.

Embry, 55, began his 17-year association with the Milwaukee Bucks in 1968 when he was chosen in the expansion draft off the World Champion Boston Celtics roster. After one season with the Bucks, in which he averaged 13.1 points and 8.6 rebounds, he retired as a player. Upon his retirement he returned to Boston to become the city's Director of Recreation. During that time, Embry also maintained his close ties with the Bucks organization, as he directed the negotiations with Hall-of-Famer Oscar Robertson which brought Robertson to Milwaukee, a move which propelled the Bucks to the 1971 World Championship.

In 1972, Embry was named Vice President and General Manager of the Bucks. During his six years as general manager, he became known for establishing the Milwaukee Bucks as one of the premier franchises in the league, and for his delicate handling of the Kareem Abdul-Jabbar trade to the Los Angeles Lakers — one of the biggest trades in the history of the NBA. The trade brought Elmore Smith, Dave Meyers, Brian Winters, and Junior Bridgeman to the Bucks, forming the core of the Bucks teams that won 11 division titles during the 1970s and 1980s.

Embry has a deep interest in the youth of his community. He enjoys delivering his message of striving for success in whatever a person does, to as many youth groups as his demanding schedule allows. He has served on the Board of Directors of Junior Achievement of Southeastern Wisconsin, the Medical College of Wisconsin, Athletes For Youth, the Wisconsin Heart Association, Milwaukee Children's Hospital, Wisconsin Chapter of the Salvation Army and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee Foundation Board.

Currently, Embry is a member of the Board of Trustees for the National Urban League. He also is a member of the USA Basketball Games Committee, a select group of coaches and basketball experts responsible for selecting the USA Olympic Team. Embry is also a Trustee of the Basketball Hall of Fame, Daniel Webster College, and his alma mater, Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

Embry has continued to show his commitment to Northeast Ohio, as he is a member of the Board of Directors of the Greater Cleveland Growth Association, the Cleveland Roundtable, the New Cleveland Campaign, and the Cleveland Scholarship Program. His business accomplishments have been recognized by his elections to the Boards of the M.A. Hanna Company, Society National Bank, Ohio Casualty Insurance, and Centerior Energy Corporation.

Embry, an Ohio native who was born and raised in Springfield, Ohio, was selected to participate in five NBA All-Star games. He played professionally for the Cincinnati Royals (1958-66), the Boston Celtics (1966-68), including the Celtics World Championship team in 1968, and the Milwaukee Bucks (1968-69). Embry was captain of the Royals from 1962-66 and he was named the first captain of the Milwaukee Bucks during the 1968-69 season.

He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Education from Miami University, with a minor in business administration, and is a member of the Miami University Hall of Fame. Embry captained Miami's basketball team from 1956-58 and was named All-Mid American Conference in the 1957-58 season.

Wayne and his wife Terri reside in Moreland Hills.

J. RICHARD KELSO

Vice Chairman

J. Richard Kelso, a former CEO at The East Ohio Gas Company who spent 40-plus years in the gas industry, was elected Vice Chairman of the Cleveland Cavaliers in March, 1990.

As Vice Chairman, Kelso, who was also elected to the Board of Directors of the Cavs-Coliseum Management Company, has taken on an active role in the Cavs corporate and community relations programs. Kelso has combined his love for Northeast Ohio and the Cleveland Cavaliers with his business knowledge and established business ties to many professionals in the area.

From the community relations angle, Kelso has operated off what he perceives "is the intent of the NBA as expressed by Commissioner David Stern for teams in the league to become more involved in community enhancement efforts."

From the corporate perspective, Kelso, who served nine years as a CEO in the community and in that span has been deeply involved in various projects to enhance Northeast Ohio's regional and national reputation, has utilized his business relationships to increase the opportunity for the Cavs to become more linked with the corporate community of Northeast Ohio.

Like his business experience, Kelso's involvement with sports has existed for many years. He attended Geneva College in Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania, where he played basketball and baseball and earned a degree in education with the intent of becoming a teacher and a coach.

His plans for a teaching career, however, were turned upside down and finally set aside for good when the first job he accepted out of college was an advertising and sales promotion position at The People's Natural Gas Company in Pittsburgh. He spent the next 41 years working for various companies within the Consolidated Natural Gas system, spending time in four different states and holding positions ranging from Vice President of Marketing at Hope Natural Gas Company in Clarksburg, West Virginia, to Chairman at East Ohio in Cleveland.

Although his coaching career was set aside with his teaching career, his love for sports continued and was finally given the opportunity to blossom when he came to Cleveland in 1981. This was the first place he had been stationed which had an NBA franchise.

In the early 1980's though, the Cavs were struggling, and Kelso used to come to games and find himself with only about 1,000 others rooting for the Cavs. So upon the suggestion of Gordon Gund, with whom he became acquainted when both were members of the Board of Directors of Ameritrust, and who, with his brother George, bought the franchise prior to the 1983 season, Kelso became the founding President of the Rebounders Booster Club of the Cavaliers.

As Rebounders President, Kelso's goal was to help rebuild season ticket sales and corporate interest in the Cavs. His involvement in the Rebounders then led to a number of things, not the least of which was his becoming identified as a "superfan" of the Cavaliers.

In addition, he implemented an East Ohio "Family Night With The Cavs," now one of the most successful programs at East Ohio and a program, he explains, that can work for other corporations. With the unparalleled success of the NBA in the 1980s, Kelso emphasizes that corporations recognize that NBA teams are great vehicles not only for marketing tie-ins, but for business entertainment, employee programs and community involvement.

Since his early involvement with the Cavs, Kelso has taken every opportunity possible to be associated with the organization, a fact that no doubt helped him obtain his current position. After retiring from East Ohio Gas in the fall of 1989, Kelso was contacted by Gordon Gund and John Graham and he was asked to consider an association with the Cavs. A part-time association was arrived at and thus Kelso has put to use his years of experience as a civic leader.

In addition to his former East Ohio Gas and Greater Cleveland Growth Association positions, Kelso has served as Campaign Chairman for both the Greater Cleveland United Way and the United Negro College Fund. He is a former Chairman of Vocational Guidance Services and has served on the Board of Directors or Advisory Council of 20 area organizations.

Kelso makes his home in Chagrin Falls.

LENNY WILKENS

Head Coach

In his six seasons, Lenny Wilkens has been the commander of one of the greatest resurgences in NBA history. Coach Wilkens has taken a veteran Cavs team that won 29 games in 1985-86 and transformed it into a youthful team with veteran leadership that has won 57 games twice in the last four seasons, and ascended to the 1992 Eastern Conference Finals.

Wilkens' 1989-90 Cavaliers finished 42-40, despite losing 154 player games due to injury, and 33-49 in 1990-91 despite losing 241 player games due to injury. Under the direction of Coach Wilkens, the Cavaliers survived a 1989-90 season in which All-Stars Brad Daugherty, Larry Nance and Mark Price missed 41, 20, and 9 games respectively due to injury, and rallied to qualify for the 1990 NBA Playoffs. Then in 1990-91, the Cavs had the services of Mark Price for just 16 games (9-7), and John Williams was unavailable for 39 games. However, with just 72 player games lost due to injury in 1991-92, the Cavs returned to the 50-win plateau and matched the franchise-best record of 57-25 which was previously achieved in 1988-89.

Wilkens, one of the most popular members of the Cleveland Cavaliers in the early 1970s, has accomplished a great deal while enjoying the longest tenure with one team by any current NBA coach. He has done so by displaying the same traits that characterized his career as a player — his outstanding work ethic, his ability to build good working relationships and his ability to think on the court.

In June, 1986, Wilkens became the tenth coach in the history of the franchise, after serving as the General Manager of the Seattle SuperSonics during the 1985-86 season. He is a 14-year veteran as a head coach in the league, while also having served as a player-coach for five seasons (1969-1976). Wilkens has coached 1,536 regular season NBA games. With 815 wins, Wilkens is fifth on the all-time winningest NBA coaches list and second among active NBA coaches with an 815-721 (.531) career regular season coaching record. On March 15, 1992 vs. the Denver Nuggets, Wilkens joined Red Auerbach, Jack Ramsay, Dick Motta and Bill Fitch as the fifth NBA coach to win 800 games. Wilkens is 262-230 (.533) as Cleveland's Head Coach.

Wilkens has coached three NBA All-Star teams, including the Eastern Conference team in the 1989 All-Star Game in Houston. He was enshrined in the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts, on May 9, 1990. Wilkens was the Digital NBA Coach of the Month for December, 1988, as the Cavs posted a 13-2 mark. As an NBA head coach, he has recorded five seasons of 50-plus wins (52 in 1978-79, 56 in 1979-80, 52 in 1981-82, 57 in 1988-89, and 57 in 1991-92).

Wilkens' place in the basketball world was further evidenced by his selection as an assistant coach for the 1992 United States Olympic Men's Basketball Team that won the Gold Medal in Barcelona, Spain. He joined Head Coach Chuck Daly and Assistants P.J. Carlesimo and Mike Krzyzewski on the bench.

In 1991-92, the Cavaliers made their fourth playoff appearance under Coach Wilkens, and the eighth playoff appearance in the 22-year existence of the franchise. Wilkens has led his teams into the playoffs in 10 of his last 14 seasons as a head coach.

Cleveland had the most successful playoff run in franchise history in 1992. The Cavs defeated the New Jersey Nets 3-1 in the First Round and defeated the Boston Celtics 4-3, before dropping the Eastern Conference Finals 4-2 to the eventual World Champion Chicago Bulls. Wilkens has a career NBA playoff coaching slate of 52-49 (.515). His 52 playoff victories rank 10th on the all-time NBA coaching list and Wilkens is third among active NBA coaches.

The Cavaliers' improvement has stemmed from their solid play at The Coliseum. One of Coach Wilkens' first goals in Cleveland was for his team to establish itself at home. The Cavs posted a 31-10 mark at The Coliseum in the '87-88 campaign, before riding a 22-game home winning streak to a franchise-best 37-4 home slate and tying the Detroit Pistons for the best home record in the NBA in 1988-89. In 1991-92, the Cavaliers had a 35-6 home slate to record their second-best record at The Coliseum.

Another Wilkens' trademark has been his ability to have his team playing its best basketball at season's end. The Cavaliers concluded the 1989-90 regular season by winning 13 of their last 15 home games to finish with a 27-14 home slate. In 1990-91, the Cavs finished the season by winning 8 of their last 9 home games including the last 4 home games in a row. In 1991-92, Wilkens led the Cavs to a 35-6 home mark, including wins in 16 of the last 17 games at The Coliseum. In Wilkens' six seasons, Cleveland is 178-68 (.724) in regular season play at The Coliseum and 11-5 (.688) in home playoff action.

Wilkens previously served as a player-coach for Seattle in 1969-72, and for the Portland Trail Blazers from 1974-75. He returned to Seattle as head coach midway through the 1977-78 season, and remained as the head coach through the 1984-85 campaign before moving to the front office as general manager.

The Sonics made the playoffs in six of the last eight seasons under Wilkens. They advanced to the World Championship Series in 1978 and won the NBA Championship in 1979.

Wilkens enjoyed a 15-year playing career in the NBA, and he ranks among the all-time leaders in assists, games played, minutes played, and free throws made. He was named Most Valuable Player of the 1971 All-Star Game in San Diego.

A first-round choice in the 1960 draft, Wilkens spent his first eight NBA seasons as a member of the St. Louis Hawks. In 1968, Wilkens was traded to Seattle, where he spent the next four seasons. Then in 1972, he became a member of the Cavs when he was acquired along with Barry Clemens in exchange for Butch Beard. Wilkens represented the Cavaliers in the 1973 NBA All-Star Game, in a season when he averaged 20.5 points and 8.4 assists per game. Wilkens concluded his playing career with the Trail Blazers in the 1974-75 season as a player-coach.

Wilkens played his college ball at Providence College, and he led his freshman team to a 23-0 record. In his junior year, the Friars lost in the semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament, but in his senior season (1959-60), Providence reached the NIT finals before losing to Bradley. He was named the tourney's MVP and was a first-team selection to two All-American teams. Lenny was named the Outstanding Player in the New England area in 1960 and in 1961, he was named to the Rhode Island Heritage Hall of Fame. Wilkens graduated from Providence College with a degree in economics.

In March, 1988, Wilkens was selected to join the NIT-NIKE Hall of Fame, joining such basketball legends as George Mikan, Tom Gola, Walt Frazier, Ernie Calverly, Maurice Stokes, Ed Macauley and Larry Bird. He also has been elected to the New York City Basketball Hall of Fame and the Brooklyn (N.Y.) Hall of Fame.

In 1979, Wilkens received several awards. He was named as the City of Hope Sportsman of the Year, the Congressional Black Caucus Coach of the Year, the CBS Coach of the Year and the Black Publisher of America Coach of the Year. In 1980, he received the Urban League-Whitney Young Outstanding Citizen Award and was awarded a Doctorate of Humanities degree from Providence.

Wilkens has also given generously of his time to various charitable causes during his playing and coaching careers. While in Seattle, he worked with the Boys and Girls Clubs and the Catholic Diocese. In Cleveland, he has been associated with Rainbow Babies and Children's Hospital and the Kidney Foundation, as well as speaking to as many service organizations as his schedule permits. Also, at various times over the course of his career, Wilkens has utilized his expert insight as a sports analyst for ABC, CBS and TNT.

In addition, he has served for the last four years as the honorary chairman of the Marymount-Cavs RP Golf Classic which benefits the RP Foundation Fighting Blindness, as well as chairing the 1988 Make-A-Wish golf tournament. Also, he was honored at the annual Shoes For Kids luncheon in 1988 as the recipient of the organization's "Golden Shoe Award", in recognition of his involvement with the program. For 10 years in Seattle, Lenny directed a golf tournament and celebrity roast which benefited the Odessa Brown Children's Home and the Washington State Special Olympics.

Wilkens received two prestigious honors following the 1991-92 season. In September, he received the "Pride of Cleveland Award" from the Sports Media Association of Cleveland and Ohio (S.M.A.C.O.), and in October, he was honored as the "Catholic Man of the Year 1992" by the Knights of Columbus Luncheon Club.

Lenny was born in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, New York. He served in the Army Quartermaster Corps as a Second Lieutenant from May, 1961 to November, 1962. Lenny and his wife Marilyn have three children — Leesha, Randy and Jamee.

DICK HELM

Assistant Coach

Dick Helm is in his seventh season as an assistant coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers, having rejoined Head Coach Lenny Wilkens on the bench for the 1986-87 season. Helm previously served as Wilkens' assistant with the Seattle SuperSonics during the 1984-85 season.

Helm also has served as a scout for the Sonics and he adds to the Cavs over 30 years of basketball experience as a player and an instructor. Helm's strengths include his teaching, communication and organizational abilities.

A graduate of Illinois' Wheaton College in 1955, Helm served as class president while gathering honors at Wheaton in basketball, football and track. A member of Wheaton's "Hall of Honor," he always played on a winning team for the Crusaders.

Following his graduation, Helm earned a master's degree in administration of education and physical education from Michigan State University before serving a two-year stint in the U.S. Army at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. His coaching career began in 1958 at Wheaton's Central High School. After 14 successful years as both a high school coach and administrator, Helm entered the collegiate ranks to serve as head basketball coach and athletic director for the Judson College Eagles in Elgin, Illinois.

After three years at Judson, Helm returned to Wheaton College, 20 years following his graduation, and served as head varsity basketball coach from 1975-83. During the 1983-84 season, Helm served as assistant basketball coach for North Central College in Naperville, Illinois, helping the Cardinals to their first-ever NCAA Division III tournament appearance. To recognize his contribution to the sport of basketball in Illinois, Helm was named to the Illinois Basketball Hall of Fame in April, 1988. In the summers of 1990 and 1991, he was enlisted to make a tour of Western Australia as he conducted coaching clinics and shared his basketball expertise with the Perth Wildcats and other State League basketball teams. After his initial visit, the Perth Wildcats went on to win the Australian National Basketball title in the 1990-91 and 1991-92 seasons.

Helm has written columns for Letterman Magazine and the National Association of Basketball Coaches Journal. An active member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (F.C.A.), Helm has served as a speaker for the National Football League and Major League Baseball Chapels. He was honored by the F.C.A. in May, 1990 as the 1990 Ohio Sportsman of the Year.

Dick and his wife Andrea are the parents of seven children, four sons and three daughters: Robyn, David, Doug, Karen, Steve, Stan and Amy.

Did You Know...

One hundred and fifty-two players, representing 97 colleges and universities, have appeared in a regular season game for the Cavs (through the 1991-92 season).

Kansas, Marquette, and Notre Dame lead the way with five alumni having donned a Cavalier uniform, followed by Indiana with four Cavs. Ohio State, North Carolina, Kentucky, UCLA, Southern California, Florida State, and Rutgers have contributed three cagers to the Cleveland all-time roster, while 25 schools have sent two players to the NBA, who, at some time, played for the Cavs.

One of the 152 did not attend college. Bill Willoughby moved directly from Englewood (NJ) High School to the NBA.

BRIAN WINTERS

Assistant Coach

After a successful nine-year career in the NBA as a player, Brian Winters is in his seventh season as an assistant coach with the Cleveland Cavaliers. Winters, a two-time NBA All-Star, joined the Cavs for the 1986-87 season after serving as an assistant coach at Princeton University the previous two seasons.

In Cleveland, Winters was reunited with Cavs' General Manager Wayne Embry. As General Manager of the Milwaukee Bucks in 1975, Embry was responsible for bringing Winters to the Bucks along with Junior Bridgeman, Dave Meyers and Elmore Smith, in exchange for Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Walt Wesley.

Before joining the Bucks, Winters spent his rookie season as a member of the Los Angeles Lakers, and was named to the NBA All-Rookie Team in 1975.

As an assistant coach with the Cavaliers, Winters is primarily involved with on-court coaching as well as scouting upcoming opponents.

Winters scored 10,537 career points and finished with a scoring average of 16.2 points per game. He is third on the Milwaukee Bucks all-time list with 2,479 assists. Winters' number 32 jersey was retired by the Bucks on October 28, 1983. Thus, he is one of six Bucks to have their numbers retired — Oscar Robertson, Jon McGlocklin, Bob Lanier, Junior Bridgeman, Sidney Moncrief and Winters.

Prior to being drafted in the first round of the 1974 draft by the Lakers (the 12th pick overall), Winters enjoyed an outstanding career at the University of South Carolina. As a senior he earned All-American honors while leading the Gamecocks to a 22-win season. He finished as a member of the "Gamecock 1,000-point Club," scoring a total of 1,079 points in his career.

The Queens, New York, native played his high school ball at Archbishop Molloy, Jamaica, New York. Winters was named a Prep All-American, and led his team to the New York City title during his junior year and to the runner-up spot as a senior.

The 40-year-old Winters earned his master's degree in education at South Carolina. He enjoys working crossword puzzles and is a 12-handicap golfer who has shot a 77 at Tanglewood Country Club. Brian and his wife Julie are the parents of three daughters — Cara, Keelin, and Meghan, and of three sons — Brendan, Kevin and Ryan.

GARY FITZSIMMONS

Director of Player Personnel

Gary Fitzsimmons is in his seventh season with the Cleveland Cavaliers as Director of Player Personnel. He is responsible for evaluating talent — both amateur and professional, while also supervising the Cavs scouting system which includes Europe and the CBA. Fitzsimmons is also available for scouting assignments within the NBA.

Fitzsimmons is a 15-year NBA veteran, and he served as an assistant coach and chief scout for the San Antonio Spurs from 1984-86, before coming to Cleveland. After a spring graduation in 1978, he began his tenure in the NBA as a scout with the Kansas City Kings, before being promoted to the position of assistant coach during the summer of 1979.

Gary, the son of Phoenix Suns Senior Executive Vice President Cotton Fitzsimmons, was born in Wichita Falls, Texas. Fitzsimmons, who was offered over 80 scholarships out of high school, selected the University of Nebraska where he played basketball his freshman year.

Fitzsimmons then transferred to Southern Illinois University where he was the starting point guard. While at Southern Illinois, Fitzsimmons played with Mike Glenn and Joe C. Meriweather, both of whom went on to play in the NBA. Fitzsimmons became an assistant coach at SIU during his senior year and he earned two degrees, one in administrative justice and one in political science.

In his 14 NBA seasons, Fitzsimmons has been associated with ten playoff teams, including the 1980-81 Kansas City Kings who made it to the Western Conference Finals and the 1991-92 Cleveland Cavaliers who challenged the World Champion Chicago Bulls in the Eastern Conference Finals.

Gary has been involved in the drafting of many outstanding players into the NBA, including Steve Johnson, Eddie Johnson, LaSalle Thompson and Kevin Johnson and he has encouraged trades which have netted such players as Joe C. Meriweather, Larry Drew, Mike Woodson and Larry Nance. One of his strengths is his ability to choose late-round picks who go on to play in the NBA, with Mike Sanders (4th round, #74), Eddie Nealy (8th round, #166), Chris Dudley (4th round, #75) and Winston Bennett (3rd round, #64) serving as examples. Gary is also very adept in the free agent market, having signed Craig Ehlo, Tyrone Corbin, Henry James and Bobby Phills at mid-season out of the Continental Basketball Association.

Gary stays in shape by riding an exercise bike, using the StairMaster and running. He enjoys listening to rhythm and blues as well as pop music. He spends his off-season traveling and his hobbies include watching TV, playing golf and following his favorite baseball team, the St. Louis Cardinals.

Fitzsimmons, 38, and his wife, Nancy, reside in Akron and are the parents of Timothy Ryan and Kelley Lynne.

PETER NEWELL

Consultant/West Coast Scout

Pete Newell and the game of basketball are just about synonymous. After many years at the core of the game as a coach, administrator and innovator, Newell has international reputation and his continuing contribution to the sport is recognized world wide.

Newell's stature in the world of basketball is unsurpassed and embossed by the fact of his induction into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts, in 1978.

His coaching accomplishments are legendary. In 21 years of college coaching he compiled a .657 winning percentage, guided teams to both NCAA and NIT Championships, directed the United States basketball team to a gold medal in the 1960 Olympics, was named College Coach-of-the-Year, and won the highly coveted Metropolitan Award, given annually by college coaches to the man who has contributed the most to the game of basketball. His overall record in championship competition (NCAA, NIT, Olympic) is 23-4.

His contributions to basketball span over 50 years. He has directed basketball clinics in Europe, Central and South America for the State Department and has instituted programs for the Peace Corps. He has spent 25 years working closely with the Japanese government to develop their national basketball program. In recognition of his work in Japan, Newell received "The Order of The Sacred Treasure" in 1987 — a very prestigious award from the Japanese Emperor. This award has been bestowed on very few non-Japanese.

His legendary "Big Man's Camp" has improved the skills of such NBA players as Kevin Duckworth, Bernard King, Charles Oakley, Purvis Short and Kiki Vandeweghe.

In his current position as Consultant/West Coast Scout with the Cavaliers, Newell is responsible for the team's West Coast scouting, as well as the evaluation of college player talent in preparation for the annual NBA Draft.

A 1939 graduate of Loyola University, Newell began his coaching career that same year at St. John's Military Academy, a position he held until he went into the Navy in 1942. In the spring of 1946 he was hired as baseball and basketball coach at the University of San Francisco, where he produced an NIT Championship team in 1949. It was the first time that a West Coast team had ever been invited to the tournament, let alone win it.

Newell left USF after the 1950 season and moved to Michigan State, where he coached for four years. From there, he returned to California as coach of the University of California at Berkeley.

In his six seasons at Cal (1955-60), he took a 1-11 team (1955) to a conference championship just two years later (1957). The next three years Cal won the Pacific Coast Conference championship. Newell's team lost in the NCAA Western regional finals in 1957 and 1958, but went on to win the NCAA Championship in 1959, defeating West Virginia, which was led by Jerry West. In 1960, Cal finished 28-1, and lost to Ohio State in the NCAA finals but Newell was named College Coach-of-the-Year. Also in 1960, he began an 8-year tenure of service on the NCAA Basketball Tournament Committee.

In the summer of 1960, Newell went to Rome as coach of the United States Olympic basketball team, where his team went undefeated to capture the gold medal. He continued his Olympic involvement by serving on the U.S. Olympic Committee from 1960-68 and from 1978-1990.

In the fall of '60, Newell became the athletic director at Cal, where for eight years he directed the fortunes of the entire University of California athletic program. To honor his accomplishments at Cal-Berkeley, the University renamed its basketball home Harmon Arena/Newell Court in December, 1987. In addition, a "Pete Newell Scholarship" was endowed in 1990 to further honor his accomplishments.

Newell remained Athletic Director until 1968, when he was named general manager of the second-year San Diego Rockets of the NBA. The Rockets had a 15-67 record in their initial season in the league, but in Newell's first season the Rockets were 37-45 and made the playoffs.

When the Rockets moved to Houston in 1971-72 Newell remained with the operation in an advisory capacity until the Los Angeles Lakers named him their general manager in 1972. During this time, he began his 19-year-plus association with the young general manager of the Milwaukee Bucks, Wayne Embry.

He left the Lakers after the 1976 season and was hired by Golden State just prior to the 1977-78 NBA season. He served the club as a talent consultant until he became the Warriors Director of Player Personnel in 1984.

In 1991, Newell was selected by the NABC (National Association of Basketball Coaches) as the recipient of its Golden Anniversary Award, recognizing his contributions to basketball. Also, in June, 1991, he was honored by the Sacramento Kings with the "California Basketball Legend Award."

GARY BRIGGS

Trainer and Director of Team Travel

Gary Briggs, the Cavaliers' Trainer and Director of Team Travel, performs a vitally important double-function for the team. Briggs is the tape that holds the club together and the compass that points to the next NBA city.

In his 11th year with the Cavs, Briggs is recognized around the league as one of the best trainers in the business as evidenced by his selection as Chairman-Elect for the National Basketball Trainers Association (NBTA). Briggs will assume the Chairman's role for the 1993-94 and 1994-95 seasons, after working closely with Washington Bullets trainer John Lally over the previous two seasons.

As the Cavs Trainer, Briggs administers to the immediate medical needs of the team's players. Most of his training time is spent in the area of preventive medicine — stretching, taping, treatment, and rehabilitation.

As Director of Team Travel, Briggs is responsible for air and ground transportation, as well as accommodations, for the Cavs on each road trip. Over his career, Briggs' versatility has enabled him to handle problems ranging from a pregame toothache to a postgame trek to the airport in a blinding snowstorm, and he has handled both aspects equally well.

Briggs joined the Cavaliers prior to the 1982-83 season after spending two years as Head Athletic Trainer at Troy State University, where he was responsible for the training needs of all men's and women's varsity sports.

The 43-year-old native of Long Beach, California, was certified by the National Athletic Trainers' Association (NATA) in 1978 and began his training career as a student assistant while attending the University of Florida. From there he moved to Morehead State University, where he finished his graduate work as an assistant trainer, and worked at the Philadelphia Eagles Training Camp. Upon graduation, Gary was hired as head trainer at Glenoak High School in Canton, Ohio. After five years at Glenoak, he became the head trainer at Troy State. He also has been the head trainer at the NCAA Division II Baseball World Series and the Blue-Gray Football Classic.

In addition to his affiliation with the NATA, Briggs is a member of the Great Lakes Athletic Trainers Association and the Ohio Athletic Trainers Association. The former NBTA Eastern Conference representative is currently serving as Central Division representative on the association's executive committee.

Briggs was a three-time letterman in high school football and he enjoys fishing, following all sports, and playing racquetball. He resides in Stow with his wife Sue, who teaches English at Kent State University, and their two daughters, Ashley Paige, 7, and Courtney Suzanne, 5.

JOE TAIT

Vice President, Broadcasting

Joe Tait returns for his 21st season as the voice of the Cleveland Cavaliers. As the club's radio play-by-play announcer, Tait has become one of the most recognizable and popular members of the Cavs and he is synonymous with the team itself.

For the first 11 years of the Cavs history, he was the voice that let everyone know "It's basketball time at The Coliseum" (or, "It's basketball time at the Cleveland Arena" until the 1974-75 season). During that time, he became an institution in the area while earning a reputation as one of the top sportscasters in the country.

In 1981, he left Cleveland to become the radio play-by-play announcer of the New Jersey Nets and a year later he handled the play-by-play of Chicago Bulls games on SportsVision, the teams cable-TV outlet. Tait returned to the Cavs radio post in 1983.

In December, 1987, Tait was named Vice President of Broadcast Services for the Cavaliers. In that fulltime role, Tait was involved in all aspects of the Cavs radio and television broadcasting, while continuing his duties as radio broadcaster. For 1992-93, Tait will broadcast all 82 games on the Cavs radio network which covers most of the state of Ohio and includes more than 40 affiliates. In the previous four seasons, Tait performed the television play-by-play duties for the 20 games each season which were telecast on WOIO-Nineteen and the Cavs television network.

Prior to his fulltime association with the Cavaliers, Tait broadcasted Cleveland Indians baseball for 16 years. He has also done selected college basketball games that were carried nationally on the CBS Radio network. Tait was named the 1991 Sportscaster of the Year in Ohio. He also received the honor in 1974, 1976, and 1978. In addition, Tait was voted the best radio/TV announcer in the area in a poll conducted by the Cleveland Plain Dealer in 1985 and 1986. Tait kept active during the summer of 1992 as the play-by-play voice of the World Basketball League on both SportsChannel America and ESPN.

A graduate of Monmouth College in Illinois, Tait began his radio career while still in college, broadcasting local sports events in the Illinois/Indiana area. In 1969, Tait became the network voice of Indiana University football and the pre-game host of Indiana Pacer basketball in the old ABA. A year later, with the birth of the Cavaliers, Tait began his association with the club. Also, Tait was an instructor in sportscasting at Ohio University from 1966-68 and he is currently instructing at Mount Union College. He was elected to the Monmouth College Athletic Hall of Fame in October, 1991, to the Media Hall of Fame by the Sports Media Association of Cleveland and Ohio (S.M.A.C.O.) in September, 1992, and to the Summit County Broadcasters Hall of Fame in October, 1992.

Tait and his wife, Jean, reside in Lafayette.

Did You Know...

The Cavaliers lost all four games to the eventual NBA Champion Milwaukee Bucks in 1970-71, the Cavs initial season in the league. But in 1971-72, the Cavs handed the Los Angeles Lakers one of only thirteen defeats that the Lakers would endure that season, as the Lakers went on to post the best record in NBA history (69-13) en route to the NBA title.

The Cavs have won 22 games and lost 67 games against teams that were destined to go on to win the NBA Championship, never winning a season series, but splitting seven times.

Last year, the Cavs were 2-3 in the regular season vs. the World Champion Chicago Bulls, and were defeated 4-2 in the Eastern Conference Finals by the Bulls. In 1988-89, the Cavs defeated the eventual champion Detroit Pistons in three out of six contests. The Cavs won two of four games against eventual champs Golden State (1975), Portland (1977), Washington (1978), and Seattle (1979), while splitting two contests with the L.A. Lakers (1980 and 1988).

In 1976, the Cavs lost the NBA Eastern Conference Finals to the Boston Celtics 4-2, before the Celts defeated the Phoenix Suns in six games for the NBA Championship.

1992-93 Cleveland Cavaliers Outlook

by Lenny Wilkens

The 1991-92 season was a very enjoyable and rewarding one for the Cleveland Cavaliers. It was a season in which our team made one of the greatest jumps in NBA history. We won 57 games and took the World Champion Chicago Bulls to six games in the Eastern Conference Finals. It was an incredible accomplishment when you consider that our team won just 33 games while decimated by injuries the year before. We certainly demonstrated that when our team is healthy, we are among the elite teams in the league -- able to challenge for the NBA Championship as we did last season.

With all the injuries over the previous two seasons, many forgot how good we were when we won 57 games in 1988-89. Mark Price's comeback from knee surgery really epitomized the desire and determination that propelled the 1991-92 Cavs. He not only returned to lead our team, but Mark re-established himself as one of the best point guards in the league. Making the All-Star Team after undergoing anterior cruciate ligament surgery the previous off-season was an amazing feat. Mark averaged 17.3 ppg and 7.4 apg. He led the league with a .947 FT%, the second best free throw shooting season in league history. Brad Daugherty continued his steady improvement and firmly established himself among the top centers in the league, making the All-Star Team for the fourth time in his 6-year career. Brad had career-highs of .570 FG% (a new Cavs record) and .707 FT%, while averaging 20+ points (21.5 ppg) and 10+ rebounds (10.4 rpg) for the second straight season.

Larry Nance continued to play at the top of his game. At age 33, Larry keeps himself in extraordinary condition and he has shown no signs of slowing down. His ability to protect the basket on the defensive end and to hit the jump shot played a key role in our success. Larry averaged 17.0 ppg and 8.3 rpg, and was among the league leaders in blocked shots (3rd, 3.00 bpg) and FG% (10th, .539). Craig Ehlo made a late-season recovery from a strained ligament in his left knee, and returned to have some big games for us in the playoffs. The irony of Craig's injury was that it allowed us to re-sign Mike Sanders. Mike really fit in well with our team and he made a solid contribution as our starting small forward.

John Williams was there for us again all season. John could start for most teams but he really gives us an edge off the bench. To have a player of his size and agility to bolster the bench is a great advantage. In my opinion, Hot Rod was the best sixth man in the league, as he averaged 11.9 ppg, 7.6 rpg, and shot .503 FG%. He was 11th in the league in blocked shots with 2.28 bpg, trailing only Larry Nance in blocked shots among forwards. Terrell Brandon had an outstanding rookie season. Terrell's speed and quickness were great assets when matching up with other fleet point guards, and his decision-making will improve with experience. John Battle helped us last year both on and off the court. His toughness and his will to win rubbed off on everyone. Since last year was John's first season with the Cavs, I feel he will make an even greater contribution next season. Steve Kerr filled in very admirably at shooting guard when Craig was injured. Over the last 16 games of the season, Steve averaged 11.9 ppg on .644 (65-101) FG%, including a .622 (23-37) three-point FG%.

Since we did not have a draft pick, much of our hopes for taking the next step will depend on internal improvement. Our players work very hard during the summer to improve their game and this is especially important for our young players. Danny Ferry made progress last season. He was stronger and his knee was in better shape than a year ago. If Danny can consistently rebound and make open shots, he'll play a key role for us. Also, we signed free agent Jerome Lane, who is a forward known for his rebounding skills.

One of the keys to our success last season was our depth. If that means a player has to sit and wait, then he must do so while continuing to work. We need everyone to be prepared because over 82 games, each player gets the opportunity to contribute. The work ethic that our players demonstrated to stay ready last season was very evident.

I am really excited about the 1992-93 season. Our team made great strides and got a taste of success last season. Now, we will attempt to advance even further and provide our fans with a team that they can continue to support and one of which they can be proud. The Cleveland Cavaliers will look for continued success, while representing the Cleveland area with class and dignity.

1991-92 Season

1991-92 Season Review

NOVEMBER (9-5): Cleveland opened the season with a 5-game (1-4) road trip through the West and Texas. The Cavs were given a boost when Mark Price was activated from the injured list on November 11, after missing nearly a year due to a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee. Price was inserted into the starting line-up and the Cavs went on to win eight of nine games to end the month, including a five-game winning streak to finish November. The Cavs were one of four teams to go undefeated at home during November (7-0). Brad Daugherty, who was named the NBA Player of the Week for Nov. 11-17, led the Cavs with 23.6 ppg, 10.4 rpg, and with .604 FG%. Daugherty had a pair of 31-point games in back-to-back wins over Philadelphia, registered 7 games of 20+ points and 10+ rebounds, and led the Cavs in scoring 9 times and in rebounding 9 times. Larry Nance was second on the Cavs in scoring (18.6 ppg), rebounds (7.6 rpg), FG% (.574), and led the Cavs in blocks (2.71 bpg). Price led the team in assists (8.4 apg) and steals (1.63 spg), while leading the NBA in FT% on a perfect 30-30 from the line.

DECEMBER (10-4, 19-9): The Cavs closed out the month of December with six straight wins, their longest winning streak since they won the final six games of the 1989-90 season. In the final eight games of December, the Cavs averaged 116.4 ppg and .510 FG% to their opponents' 98.0 ppg and .445 FG%. On 12/17, the Cavs set an NBA record for largest margin of victory with a 68-point, 148-80 win over the Miami Heat at The Coliseum. The previous largest margin was 63 points, when the Los Angeles Lakers defeated Golden State 162-99 on 3/19/72. It was the most points scored by the Cavs in a regulation game, surpassing the 142-point output vs. the Warriors on 1/23/89. The Cavs held the Heat to 27 points in the second half, another team record. The Cavs defeated the Utah Jazz 113-112 on a Craig Ehlo 3-pointer at the buzzer on December 23 — the second time in two years that Ehlo has beaten the Jazz with a 3-pointer at the buzzer. The Cavs also won consecutive home games vs. San Antonio and Houston to close out the month. Larry Nance set a Cavs record with 7 blocked shots in the 3rd quarter vs. Charlotte on 12/21.

JANUARY (10-4, 29-13): The Cavs won the first five games of the New Year, including back-to-back wins at New York (110-103 on 1/2) and at Boston (111-100 on 1/3). The Cavs tied their team record with an 11-game winning streak, which was snapped at The Coliseum in a 121-114 loss to Portland on 1/14. The Cavs also tied their team record with seven consecutive road victories. The Cavs finished the month of January with a 6-1 road mark, setting a new team record for most road wins in a month. Despite the absence of center Brad Daugherty (strained right Achilles tendon) for six games, the Cavs won four out of five games to close out the month, including a 95-90 win over the Detroit Pistons at the Palace. Price averaged 20.4 ppg during January, in just 30.4 minutes per game. The Cavs also received strong performances from Larry Nance, who averaged 24.4 ppg, 10.4 rpg and 3.00 bpg on .622 FG% in his final five games of January. John Williams filled in admirably at center in place of the injured Daugherty, averaging 17.2 ppg, 10.2 rpg, 3.8 apg and 2.50 bpg in his six starts.

FEBRUARY (8-5, 37-18): The Cavs posted a winning record for the fourth consecutive month, including a 4-1 record at home. Cleveland played 8 road games during February, and posted wins in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, and at the Lakers. The win against Chicago, 113-112 on 2/17, snapped a string of 12 straight regular season losses to the Bulls. The victory over the Knicks on 2/20 was Cleveland's 34th of the season, surpassing the 1990-91 win total of 33, with 31 games remaining. Brad Daugherty and Mark Price both participated in the All-Star game in Orlando on 2/7, marking the third time in team history that the Cavs had two or more All-Star representatives. Daugherty made his franchise leading 4th All-Star appearance, while Price took part in his second All-Star game. Price broke his own Cavalier record for consecutive free throws (45 from 11/2/90-11/21/90) on 2/26, and he made 51 foul shots in a row before missing on 2/28. He only missed one free throw in 49 attempts for the month, for a percentage of .980. Daugherty led the Cavs in scoring in 9 of the 13 games and in rebounding 10 times. He averaged 23.3 ppg and 11.8 rpg in 38.0 minutes per contest. Larry Nance was named the Edge NBA Player of the Week for the period ending 2/2. For February, Nance averaged 3.62 blocked shots per game. Craig Ehlo, who played in his 200th consecutive game on 2/26, finished sixth in the American Airlines/ ITT Sheraton Shootout in Orlando.

MARCH (12-4, 49-22): The Cavs had a winning record for the fifth consecutive month this season, including a perfect 7-0 record at home. The 12 wins in March is the most wins in a month for the Cavs since they went 13-2 in December '88. The Cavs became the second NBA team to clinch a playoff berth, with a 123-80 win over Atlanta on March 22, tying the earliest date that the Cavs have wrapped up a playoff berth (also clinched on 3/22/89). Highlights in March included the 800th career victory for Head Coach Lenny Wilkens. Wilkens became the fifth coach in NBA history to accomplish that feat with a 100-91 win over Denver on March 15. Brad Daugherty had his third career triple-double vs. Indiana on March 24, when he had a season-high 32 points, 11 rebounds and a season-high 11 assists. On March 7, Daugherty became the leading rebounder in Cavs history, passing Jim Chones. Larry Nance set a new Cavs record for blocked shots in a season (208), breaking his former mark of 206 rejections set in 1988-89. Starting guard Craig Ehlo sprained his left knee vs. Phoenix on March 10, sidelining him for 5 weeks. However, the Cavs signed forward Mike Sanders for the remainder of the season, and he averaged 9.7 ppg and 4.5 rpg on .582 FG% in his first 10 games.

APRIL (8-3, 57-25): The Cavs ended the regular season with their sixth consecutive winning month as they tied the franchise record for victories in a season (57). On 4/14 vs. Chicago, Larry Nance became the 77th player in NBA history to score 14,000 career points. On 4/17, Nance moved past Elvin Hayes into 8th place on the list of NBA all-time shot blockers (he is first all-time among forwards) with 1,774 blocks. He also broke Hayes' NBA single-season record for blocked shots by a forward at 241, and he finished the season with 243 blocks. Nance recorded his second career triple-double (first as a Cav) on 4/9 vs. Charlotte with 26 points, 10 rebounds, and a career-high 14 assists. Craig Ehlo returned from a 5-week, 19-game stint on the injured list on 4/15 and played in the final 3 regular season games, averaging 10.0 points in 20.0 minutes. Steve Kerr, whose previous career high was 19 points set on 1/6/90, had games of 23 points on 4/9, 19 points on 4/12, and 24 points on 4/17 during the month. Kerr, filling in for the injured Ehlo, averaged 13.3 ppg for April, shot .609 (56-92) FG% and .606 (20-33) 3-pt. FG%. Mark Price led the NBA with .946 FT%, the 2nd best FT shooting season in NBA history.

Cavaliers History

Season One — 1970-1971

The Cavaliers opened their initial NBA campaign with a collection of players selected in the expansion and college drafts.

The most notable players chosen by Cleveland from their sister NBA franchises included center Walt Wesley, forward Bobby "Bingo" Smith, and guards John Warren and Butch Beard — although Beard would be spending the Cavs' first season in the green of the United States Army instead of the "wine and gold" of the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Also selected was a trio of pro cage veterans who had enjoyed some success in the NBA. But guard Don Ohl retired before the season began, and guard John Egan and forward McCoy McLemore were involved in minor trades during the campaign.

John Johnson, a 6'7" guard-forward from Iowa, was the first player tabbed by Cleveland in the NBA College Draft, and forward Dave Sorenson from Ohio State was the Cavs' second selection.

President and General Manager Nick Mileti looked to the college ranks for the man who could mesh the individuals into a cohesive unit and came up with 37-year old Bill Fitch, head coach at the University of Minnesota. The articulate, quick-witted Fitch, had compiled a record of 187-111 in twelve seasons of collegiate coaching at Coe College, North Dakota, Bowling Green, and Minnesota.

Fitch quipped "Just remember, the name is Fitch, not Houdini!" and Cavaliers followers learned what he meant as the club dropped its first fifteen games. The eleventh of those fifteen defeats was the club's all-time biggest loss, 141-87 at Philadelphia.

The Cavaliers attracted national attention as fans everywhere wondered when, and if, this team would finally win. The big moment finally arrived on November 12, as the Cavs edged fellow expansionist Portland by a 105-103 count.

Twelve more losses followed, until the Cavs finally gained their first victory at home, a 108-106 decision at the Arena over Buffalo, the third expansion franchise.

Things didn't get much better as the team stood at 2-34 before the third conquest, at 3-37 before the Cavaliers finally managed to win two games in a row.

The futility experienced by the struggling Cavaliers was epitomized by the night that John Warren scored two points for Portland by making a layup in the wrong basket. Things weren't going too well for Portland either. Their center, Leroy Ellis, tried to block the shot. Moments later, Portland tried to outdo the Cavs by playing six men. The plan failed.

When the season finally ended, the Cavs record stood at 15-67, taking the basement in the Central Division.

There were some individual bright spots however.

Johnson enjoyed a fine rookie season, averaging 16.6 points and representing the team in the NBA All-Star Game. Smith was another young player who established himself as a potential star, scoring at a 15.2 pace and giving glimpses of the clutch, long range jump shot which would become so much a part of the Cavalier history.

Despite the wrong-basket episode, Warren handled himself admirably as the youthful playmaker dished out a team leading 347 assists to go with his 11.5 points per game average.

Wesley was the team's workhorse, leading in scoring (17.7) and rebounding (8.7).

Season Two — 1971-72

In spite of the woeful win-loss mark of that first season, the building process had begun, and would progress into the Cavs' sophomore campaign.

The shaping of a competitive basketball team was accelerated before the season began when the Cavaliers made Notre Dame guard Austin Carr the first pick in the college draft.

Carr, a brilliant scoring machine, had averaged 34.5 points during his three years with the Fighting Irish. Though able to compete in only 43 games as a rookie — due to a broken bone in his right foot — his star status immediately commanded a new respect for the team's capabilities.

With Butch Beard's Army duty ended, Cleveland suddenly had a promising backcourt, and Fitch bolstered the frontcourt by drafting center-forward Steve Patterson of UCLA, and by acquiring center Rick Roberson from the Los Angeles Lakers.

Still young and inexperienced, yet certainly more talented, the Cavaliers weren't the patsies of the year before. In fact, and incredibly, when the Cavs ended the calendar year of 1971 with their second four-game winning streak of the season, they rested in second place, only one game behind the injury-plagued Baltimore Bullets... second place despite a 15-24 record.

But as the calendar turned to 1972, playoff fantasies vanished as the Cavs lost their first eleven January games.

The team continued to flounder for the balance of the season, finishing at 23-59. However, the Cavaliers served notice that they weren't to be bullied anymore.

Cleveland amazingly took five of six encounters from the Central Division Champion Baltimore Bullets and also came close to stopping the Lakers' record winning streak (which was to reach 33) at 31.

Carr averaged 21.2 points during his rookie season and also made the All-Rookie Team, while Johnson (17.0 ppg) and Beard (15.4 ppg) both were selected for the mid-season All-Star Game. Roberson grabbed 12.7 rebounds per game to set a Cav record which still stands.

Season Three – 1972-1973

A touch of maturity and experience was added to the Cavaliers prior to their third season when Fitch dealt Butch Beard to the Seattle SuperSonics for sharpshooting forward Barry Clemens and one of the game's all-time great playmaking guards, Lenny Wilkens.

To complement the addition of two veteran players, Fitch traded a draft choice to Los Angeles in exchange for a promising second-year guard, Jim Cleamons, and picked forward Dwight Davis of Houston as the Cavs' first choice in the NBA college draft.

Wilkens sat out Cleveland's first seven games and the Cavaliers were 0-7. But the squad suddenly regrouped to win four of five and was on the way to their best season to date.

Newcomers, Cornell Warner and Davis joined with Roberson to provide the Cavs with better rebounding strength than they had ever had, and Wilkens provided the floor leadership blending with Carr and Johnson to form the nucleus of the offensive punch.

The Cavaliers were losing their baby teeth, and by now even the NBA powerhouses were feeling the Cavs' new bite. In fact, Boston, Milwaukee and Los Angeles, all winners of 60 or more games, all dropped contests to the hustling Cleveland ball club.

The Cavs were especially hot in early January, winning six of seven games at one point, and then set their all-time winning streak of six in mid-March.

Despite losing four of their last five games to finish last in the Central Division for the third straight season, the Cavs nonetheless finished with their best record, 32-50.

Indicative of the Cavaliers' progress was the fact that the two teams who had come into the league at the same time as Cleveland, Buffalo and Portland – were floundering in their attempts to become competitive. Whereas Cleveland had improved from 15 wins to 23 and then to 32 in three campaigns, Buffalo remained stagnant at 22, 22 and 21 and Portland stumbled from 29 to 18 to 21.

Obviously, the plan laid by Fitch and Mileti to go with young players immediately – and take it on the chin for a while – was beginning to pay better dividends than Buffalo's and Portland's "let's win as many as we can now" philosophy.

Wilkens, who averaged 20.5 points and 8.4 assists, represented Cleveland in the All-Star Game. Carr tied Wilkens for 16th place in the league's scoring derby with a 20.5 mark and Roberson was the top board man, grabbing 11.2 per game.

Season Four — 1973-74

Though winning three fewer games in the '73-74 campaign than they had won the previous year, the Cavaliers continued their growth towards respectability and eventual contention that had been established at the franchise's inception.

This was accomplished by the addition of rugged forward, Jim Brewer, the team's first draft choice from Minnesota, plus the added experience of Carr, Smith, Davis, Patterson and Clemons.

The price paid for the draft rights to Brewer was a heavy one: Rick Roberson and John Johnson to Portland. The organization had a tough time due to the fact that Roberson missed a number of games due to injuries, and Fitch correctly reasoned that with additional playing time Bingo Smith was quite capable of filling Johnson's shoes.

The Cavs dropped their first four games and fifteen of the first nineteen before they started to jell. This was now a team that was in most games and was capable of beating anyone anywhere. Not that the Cavaliers should have been regarded as favorites over such teams as Boston and Milwaukee, but there was a new realization that a game against Cleveland was not a "night off."

The main problem for the ball club was in the pivot. Brewer at 6'8" was a natural big forward, the 6'9" Patterson was not as physically imposing, and seven-foot Luke Witte was a rookie.

Thus the burden was on the forwards and guards, who responded well.

Smith, a dangerous outside threat, scored at a 14.8 clip while Davis contributed 12.5 points and a team leading 8.5 rebound average.

In the backcourt Lenny Wilkens, playing the last complete season of his illustrious career, averaged 16.4 points and 7.1 assists. Meanwhile Clemons showed a lot of promise as the heir to Wilkens' position as floor leader.

At the other guard post Carr was spectacular, scoring a team record 21.9 points per game and was selected for the All-Star Game at Seattle.

Highlighting the season was a March 24th contest against New York. The Cavaliers blew out the defending World Champions 114-92, in their last game at the Cleveland Arena. Seven months later the fabulous Coliseum in Richfield would be ready, and a new chapter would be written in Cavaliers' history.

Season Five 1974-75

The addition of talent during the off season was substantial.

The Cavs solved their pivot problem by dealing a first round draft choice to the Lakers for the rights to Jim Chones, who had been playing in the American Basketball Association.

Fitch then swapped first round draft choices with Seattle to acquire veteran guard Dick Snyder, and used the first rounder to grab forward Michael "Campy" Russell of Michigan. In the third round, Fitch tabbed a sleeper, guard Clarence "Foots" Walker from West Georgia.

These four players would fill the roles that had been vacant in the struggle to become a contender.

The Cavs opened the campaign with a six game road swing, dropping the first three but sweeping the final trio.

The defending World Champion Boston Celtics then helped the Cavs open The Coliseum, built by Cavs owner Nick Mileti, to basketball on October 29th. The Celts prevailed 107-92 before 13,184 fans.

The Cavs were 9-7 when tragedy struck. The brilliant Austin Carr, averaging more than 25 points per game, suffered torn knee cartilage and underwent surgery.

But the Cavs hung tough and were 20-16 when Chones broke a bone in his right foot, causing him to miss ten games, of which Cleveland lost eight.

Injuries continued to haunt the gutty squad. After moving to 32-29, Jimmy Clemons sat out eight games with a shoulder separation. The Cavs lost seven of those contests without their floor leader, and at 33-36, found themselves in a three-way battle with Houston and New York for the final two Eastern Conference playoff spots.

Houston emerged to clinch a spot with several games remaining and the Cavs and Knicks were both 39-41 with two games remaining as New York came to Cleveland for an April 3rd showdown. A Knicks' victory would eliminate the Cavs since New York held the advantage in the tie breaker system, while a Cleveland victory would mean that either a Cav triumph at Kansas City-Omaha or a Knick defeat at Buffalo on the season's final day would give Cleveland the playoff nod.

A then single game NBA record crowd of 20,239 poured through the turnstiles to watch the Cavs and Knicks battle. With the Cavs receiving thunderous pre-game standing ovations, onlookers saw tears in the eyes of both Mileti and Fitch, who were no doubt recalling the faithful yet sparse crowds of Arena days.

From the opening tap the teams played intense, playoff type basketball, and it wasn't until the final moments that a monstrous Brewer dunk clinched a 100-95 Cav win. Then came the closing Sunday.

Buffalo, who was already assured of a playoff berth, played a lackluster game against the Knicks, who won easily. The Cavs knew they had to win as they took the court against the Kings on national television.

The Cavs trailed by 14 points with four minutes left, but behind Snyder's shooting and Brewer's muscle, pulled to within 95-94 with three seconds left. Cleveland inbounded the ball but the King defense tightened, and when Fred Foster's shot was blocked, the Cav season ended.

The 40-42 finish was good for third place in the Central Division. The club ranked second in the league defensively and established the important home-court advantage, winning 29 of 41 in "The House that Nick Built."

Individually, Smith led a balanced offense with a 15.9 scoring average while Chones clicked at 14.5 points and 9.4 rebounds. Snyder was the third best shooting guard in the NBA, hitting .504 from the field.

The next season, the Cavaliers would provide the Northeast Ohio area with the most intense, day-in and day-out period of sports excitement enjoyed in many years.

Season Six — 1975-76

With his young team now evolving into a solid playoff contender, Fitch did little tinkering in the off-season. His only significant move was the trade of Dwight Davis to champion Golden State for ex-Cavalier guard Butch Beard and a first round draft choice, which Fitch used to pick 6'11" center-forward John Lambert from the University of Southern California.

Cleveland broke slowly out of the gate with a 6-11 record, but Fitch then swung a deal which would inspire the team and its fans to lofty heights for the balance of the campaign.

Thirty-four year old Nate Thurmond, an Akron native and a future Hall-Of-Famer as one of the game's greatest pivotmen, was joining the Cavaliers — coming home in the twilight of his brilliant career.

The Cavs sent Steve Patterson and rookie forward Eric Fernsten to the Chicago Bulls to acquire Thurmond and forward Rowland Garrett.

Thurmond would be counted on to give Chones a rest and in the meantime allow the team to maintain a high performance level with his vaunted defensive skills. Thurmond would excel in this role.

Paralleling Thurmond's debut in a Cav uniform was the return of Austin Carr to active duty. The talented guard had recovered from off-season knee surgery. To make room for Carr, Beard was placed on waivers and signed by New York.

Winning streaks of seven and five games moved the Cavs to a 27-22 record. They then reeled off a club record eight consecutive victories, roaring into first place in the Central Division at 35-22, a game and a half in front of Washington's Bullets.

But the Bullets, Central Division champions in each of the previous five campaigns, had been in these tussles before. They ran off ten wins in twelve games and came to Cleveland on March 21st with a 2½ game bulge over their new rivals.

If anyone in The Coliseum gathering of 20,784 had still wondered if their team was "for real," the Cavs put those doubts to rest with a crucial 95-92 triumph despite an outstanding Bullet effort.

The franchise had long pointed towards March 31st. That night, a 110-101 victory in New Orleans gave Cleveland its first playoff spot and left the Cavs in a virtual first place tie with Washington.

Before a national television audience on Saturday afternoon, April 10th, the Cavs tripped New York 99-94 at The Coliseum to clinch the Central Division crown. The Cavs had won 41 and lost only 18 since December 9th.

The Cavs lost a meaningless game at New York the next day but finished with their best record, 49-33. Only Golden State was a better road team than the Cavs, who were 20-21 on enemy courts. Cleveland finished second in the league defensively as Brewer and Clemons made the NBA All-Defensive second team.

Indicative of the team's balance and depth was the fact that seven Cavs averaged ten or more points per game, led by Chones' 15.8. Brewer corralled 10.9 rebounds per game and Clemons led with 5.2 assists.

The Cavs would now participate in the NBA's "second season," the playoffs. Adding to the excitement was the opponent; none other than the Washington Bullets. It would be a best of seven series with the winner advancing to the Eastern Conference Championship round.

The playoff veteran Bullets downed the Cavs 100-95 before 19,974 at The Coliseum in the opener, before the teams flew to Washington for a grueling defensive battle. Washington had the ball and a one point lead with 28 seconds left in the game, but the Cav defense forced a turnover with six seconds to go, setting up the first of three miracle finishes by the Cavaliers. Fittingly it was Bingo Smith who provided the closing heroics in the first-ever Cav playoff victory. The remaining original Cavalier canned a 30 foot "Bingo" with two seconds left for a 80-79 Cav triumph.

The teams returned to Cleveland, in front of a then NBA playoff record crowd of 21,061 and national television. The Cavs controlled the tempo throughout, winning 88-76, before the Bullets won 109-98 in Washington to deadlock the series at two.

The action moved back to The Coliseum for Game 5 where a throng of 21,312 again set a new standard for NBA playoff attendance. With seven seconds left the Bullets led 91-90, but Elvin Hayes missed two foul shots, Brewer rebounded and Cleveland called timeout.

Bingo Smith tried to duplicate his second-game heroics but his off-balance shot was short. But Clemons, roaming free under the basket, grabbed the air ball and while in midair with his back to the basket spun the ball over his head and through the hoop as the buzzer sounded. The 92-91 win meant the Cavaliers were one victory away from eliminating the powerful Bullets.

Washington was no stranger to such pressure and tied the series on their home court in Game 6, winning 102-98 in overtime.

The decisive Game 7 in Cleveland was a classic in a classic series. Again a record crowd of 21,564 packed the Coliseum. A full hour before tip-off the arena was filled, with the crowd standing and screaming "We want the Cavs."

From the opening tip it was like two giants slugging it out, neither willing to fall.

A Phil Chenier jumper tied the game for Washington at 85 with 24 seconds left and Fitch called time out. Clemons dribbled the clock down to nine seconds and Cleveland again called time to set strategy for a final shot.

From the left side Clemons inbounded to Snyder. The veteran guard dribbled down the left side of the lane, zipped past Wes Unseld and tossed a running shot from five feet high off the glass and through the net. Four seconds remained and the Cavs led 87-85. Thurmond knocked the inbounds pass away from Hayes and Chenier retrieved it in the corner, fired up a desperation shot at the buzzer and missed. Fans mobbed the floor. The Cavs had won and would now face the legendary Boston Celtics for the Eastern Conference championship.

The Cavaliers would have an edge in depth, most importantly at center, where the speed of Chones and the tenacious strength of Thurmond could wear down Boston's great center Dave Cowens.

But the Cavs suffered a cruel blow when Chones broke a foot in one of the final practice sessions prior to the series. Cleveland's edge was negated, for now the entire burden in the middle would fall to the courageous, yet aging, Thurmond.

Now in the face of long odds, the Cavaliers had to open against the playoff-wise Celtics in the storied Boston Garden. The game was tied 77-77 at the end of three quarters before Boston pulled away to win 111-99. The encouraging aspect was the play of Thurmond, who in workhorse-like fashion grabbed 16 rebounds and blocked several shots in 39 minutes.

The second game in Boston was a battle. Thurmond played brilliantly before fouling out late in the game. Boston took advantage to gain a 94-89 verdict and a 2-0 lead with the series shifting back to Cleveland, where frenzied crowds of 21,564 would gather for each of the three Coliseum contests.

Cleveland won the third game 83-78 in a tremendous defensive struggle.

The Cavs evened the series at two games before a national television audience when a fourth quarter eruption opened a huge lead and the Cavaliers coasted to a 106-87 triumph.

In Boston the Celtics prevailed in Game 5, 99-94, again when the gallant Thurmond played a great game before fouling out.

The Cavalier dream ended at The Coliseum on May 19th. Bill Fitch was presented the NBA Coach of the Year Award in pre-game ceremonies and his club did him proud by leading with 1:45 left in the game. But JoJo White canned two key hoops and Boston won 94-87.

The Celtics went on to defeat the Phoenix Suns for the NBA title. Cowens said that beating Cleveland was the key — that getting by Thurmond and his teammates was "like knocking over a wall."

Season Seven – 1976-77

The Cavaliers were basically a young team that had missed the previous season's championship by a broken foot and Fitch saw no reason to alter the roster. Only Luke Witte, disabled for the entire season, would be missing from the cast of the previous campaign. Rookie guards Chuckie Williams and Mo Howard made the team to open the campaign.

Ironically, the Cavaliers were penalized for their success of 1975-76. With the NBA/ABA merger, such players as Maurice Lucas, Artis Gilmore, Moses Malone and Dave Twardzik became available for a dispersal draft. Teams picked in reverse order of the 1976 NBA standings and by the time the selection process got to Cleveland, all the noted players were taken.

Cleveland roared to victories in their first eight games and in sixteen of the first twenty.

But injuries were already beginning to make an impact. Chones was still hampered by the foot injury. Campy Russell sat out twelve games. The situation at point guard was critical, as Clemons missed 22 games and eventually the playoffs, and Walker was absent in 20 games and half-speed in others.

On January 14th Fitch tried to negate the injury factor by dealing Rowland Garrett and two first round draft choices to Milwaukee for center Elmore Smith and guard Gary Brokaw.

But on February 8th Nate Thurmond suffered a knee injury which — except for a brief appearance in the playoffs — ended his brilliant career.

The Cavs limped to a 43-39 finish for fourth place in a tight Central Division race. Russell led in scoring (16.5) and Brewer on the boards (9.4). Brewer was again selected second team on the NBA All-Defensive team.

The Cavaliers again faced the Bullets in the playoffs — this time in a best of three "mini-series."

The Bullets beat the Cavs in Washington, 109-100 in Game 1. The Cavs recaptured some of the magic of a year before in the second game, notching a 91-83 victory before a capacity Coliseum crowd. Thurmond made his only, and last, appearance since the knee injury late in the third quarter, and provided the team and fans a psychological boost with a rebound and blocked shot in his only minute oncourt.

The teams moved to Washington for the decisive finale and the Bullets jumped to a lead which reached 17 points. The Cavaliers put on a tremendous rally to tie in the final minutes before succumbing by 104-98.

It was a disappointing ending to a season which was once so promising but, shadowed by injury, fell short of expectations.

Season Eight — 1977-78

Though the Cavaliers were entering the campaign with basically the same nucleus as before, there would be a significant change in the team's chemistry.

Jimmy Clemons became the first Cavalier to play out his option, and when Clemons signed with the Knicks, Bill Fitch agreed to take the star veteran guard, Walt Frazier, as compensation.

The backcourt was further reshaped when the Cavs traded draft choices to Philadelphia for guard Terry Furlow and drafted Rutgers' guard Eddie Jordan. Furlow missed the season's first 24 games, however, and Jordan was waived when the NBA reduced team rosters to eleven players in December.

Cleveland roared out of the starting gate, capturing 13 of its first 18 contests, but nagging injuries contributed to a slump which saw the Cavs fall to 19-21. Fitch then installed Elmore Smith as the starting center and moved Jim Chones to power forward.

The Cavs won 10 of their next 16 games to improve to 29-27, but Walt Frazier suffered a foot injury to end his season.

With Frazier out, Cleveland went into a tailspin, slipping to 34-38 and putting playoff hopes into jeopardy. The Cavs regrouped to win four of their next five, however, and with five games remaining, their magic number for clinching a third consecutive playoff spot was two.

A Cleveland victory over Detroit on April 1 combined with a Boston defeat of New Orleans the same night would accomplish the task. And that's just what happened, allowing the Cavs to join Washington and Philadelphia as the only teams to reach the playoffs in this season and each of the previous two campaigns.

Now Cleveland would try to gain the home court advantage for the first round mini-series. The Cavs needed victories in each of their final four contests to attain this goal, and they got them, trouncing Buffalo and Milwaukee and winning squeakers over Atlanta and Kansas City. The Cavs had closed the season with six consecutive victories and nine in the last ten games to finish at 43-39.

The frantic finish proved to be in vain, unfortunately.

The New York Knicks came to The Coliseum for Game 1 in the best of three series and defeated the Cavs 132-114 with uncanny 61% shooting from the field. Then at Madison Square Garden, the Cavs led through most of the contest but lost 109-107 when Spencer Haywood canned a short jump shot with one second left, ending the Cavalier season.

Russell paced the Cavs during the regular season with a 19.4 scoring average. Chones averaged 15 points and 10.3 rebounds while Elmore Smith finished eighth in the league in blocked shots with nearly 2.2 per game.

Walker responded well after the departure of Clemons and the injury to Frazier, ranking sixth in the NBA with 2.17 steals per game and seventh with a 5.6 assist average.

Season Nine — 1978-79

High hopes prevailed as Cavalier followers anxiously looked forward to starting anew with the strong frontline of Elmore Smith, Jim Chones and Campy Russell. Plans went away quickly, however, as Smith — the team's most intimidating shot blocker and rebounder — underwent knee surgery before the opener and missed the first 56 games.

Adding to the woes, Bingo Smith sat out the first ten contests with a sprained ankle.

With Chones back at the pivot, Jim Brewer at power forward and Russell playing both forward spots, the Cavs won their first four games.

But Cavalier players were to miss a total of 176 games because of injury. Walt Frazier again succumbed to the foot injury that had shelved him during much of the previous campaign, and played only in the first 12 games. Fouts Walker began to encounter a series of leg problems which sidelined him for 27 games and hampered his play in many others.

Not surprisingly, the Cavs limped to a 30-52 record, out of the playoffs and tied with Detroit for fourth place in the Central Division.

Russell enjoyed a fine season despite the instability around him, tying Austin Carr's team record scoring average of 21.9 and playing in the NBA All-Star Game.

Chones averaged 10.3 rebounds and Walker finished fourth in the league with a 2.4 steal clip and added a 5.8 assist average.

It was a season of transition and the end of an era.

Rookie forward Mike Mitchell was the team's most notable acquisition. The team's first round draft choice from Auburn, Mitchell excited Cav fans with an uncanny turn-around jump shot and gravity defying slam dunks.

Mitchell represented the future, while the nucleus of the past was inevitably breaking.

Veteran sharp-shooting guard Dick Snyder had spent the season with Seattle after becoming a free agent. The hustling, muscular Brewer was dealt to Detroit in February for future considerations.

And most significantly, Bill Fitch, after coaching the Cavaliers first 756 regular season and playoff games, announced his resignation on May 21, 1979.

On May 23 Fitch was named head coach of the Boston Celtics. Exactly two months later, Cav owner Nick Mileti presented Stan Albeck, previously an assistant coach with the L.A. Lakers, the challenging task of being only the second head coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Season Ten — 1979-80

The Cavs were active during the off-season, not only appointing Stan Albeck as the club's new head coach, but naming Ron Hrovat as General Manager and Jimmy Rodgers as Director of Player Personnel.

The new front office team made its first major move on September 21st, when Randy Smith was acquired from the San Diego Clippers in exchange for the Cavs' No. 1 pick in the 1980 college draft and cash.

The Cavs made another move shortly thereafter, trading Jim Chones to the Lakers on October 5th in exchange for Dave Robisch and Los Angeles' third round pick in the '80 college draft. But three days later, on October 8th, Elmore Smith underwent the first of three knee operations that would shelve him for the entire season.

The Cavs got off to a slow start once the season opened, going 2-7 in their first nine games. And during that interval, there were three more significant player transactions.

On October 19th, Walt Frazier was waived and Fouts Walker was reactivated. Five days later, Kenny Carr was acquired from the Lakers for a second round pick in the 1980 and '81 drafts, and on October 27th, the club's second-leading all-time scorer, Bingo Smith, was dealt to San Diego for a third round draft choice in 1980 and future considerations.

The changes seemed to work as the club went 8-5 in December, and as the new year dawned the Cavs stood at 19-20, just one game under .500 and in playoff contention. Unfortunately, it would be the closest the club would come to the .500 plateau and a playoff berth the rest of the year.

Mike Mitchell was enjoying another outstanding season, and he went on to average 22.2 points per game to lead the club. Randy Smith also had a fine year, averaging 17.6 ppg, and both Mitchell and Smith played in all of the club's 82 contests.

However, Campy Russell was not as fortunate. Although he finished second to Mitchell in scoring with a norm of 18.2 ppg, he spent part of the season on the injured list, which limited his playing time to 41 games. His absence, coupled with Elmore's loss for the entire season proved to be crippling.

Nevertheless, there were bright spots the second half of the season, including Mitchell's 46-point outburst against the Houston Rockets on February 8th, the second highest single game scoring mark in Cavalier history. The Cavs also put together an eight game winning streak in March, which tied the club record, and won 11 of the last 14 games of the season, finishing with a record of 37-45 and building hope for the future. Mitchell finished 10th in the NBA in scoring, while Walker ranked third in the league in assists (8.0 per game) and ninth in steals (2.04 per contest).

The year's end also signaled changes at the top. In a series of stock transactions, Nick Mileti's majority interest in the Cavaliers eventually was purchased by Joe Zingale in March, who then sold that interest one month later to Theodore J. "Ted" Stepien.

The Nick Mileti era had come to a close.

Season Eleven — 1980-81

The Nick Mileti era ended and the Ted Stepien regime began as the original Cavalier owner moved out of the picture, replaced by Stepien, who founded the successful Nationwide Advertising Service.

Stepien's first move was to hire Bill Musselman as the team's coach and then he initiated a series of trades before the opening of the season, sending a 1984 first-round draft pick to Dallas in exchange for Mike Bratz, and trading Campy Russell to the New York Knicks for Bill Robinson, who subsequently was sent to Dallas along with two No. 1 draft picks for Richard Washington and Jerome Whitehead. In addition, the Cavs' all-time leading scorer, Austin Carr, was selected by the Mavericks in the expansion draft.

The Cavs struggled from the outset, posting a 13-27 record through December. But January would be a month to remember.

The Cavs posted a 9-5 record that month, a .643 clip, building hope for the future. And Mike Mitchell, enjoying the best season of his career, was selected to play in the NBA All-Star Game.

What made that honor even sweeter was the fact that the game was played at the Coliseum, and it proved to be a highlight of the season. The game was a critical and an artistic success, and Mitchell, playing in front of his home fans, responded by scoring 14 points in 15 minutes of action.

Mitchell would go on from there to score 2,012 points during the year, breaking his own Cavalier single season scoring record. He averaged 24.5 points per game, the sixth best mark in the NBA, and took his place among the league's top forwards.

After the team's outstanding January, more changes were in the works. The Cavs' first pick in the 1985 draft and guard Chad Kinch were traded to Dallas for Geoff Huston, who provided the club with a quarterback to run its offense. And with 11 games left in the season, Don Delaney, the club's General Manager, was given the additional duties of head coach, as Musselman became more involved in player personnel responsibilities.

With all the changes, the Cavs finished with a record of 28-54. In addition to Mitchell, the team received consistent scoring from Kenny Carr, who averaged 15.2 points per game, the best mark of his career, and 10.3 rebounds, to place sixth in the NBA.

Bill Laimbeer, in his rookie season, showed consistent improvement as the Cavs' starting center, while the backcourt, led by Randy Smith and Roger Phegley, who both averaged over 14 points per game, was strengthened by the late-season acquisition of Huston.

Season Twelve — 1981-82

Once again the Cavs were busy during the off-season, signing free agents James Edwards, Scott Wedman, and Bobby Wilkerson. With those additions, coupled with returnees such as Mike Mitchell, Kenny Carr, Geoff Huston, and Bill Laimbeer, the Cavs won three of their first five games of the season. But the team dropped 11 of the next 12 contests, and on December 4th, Chuck Daly was brought in to take over the head coaching reigns from Don Delaney.

During Daly's tenure with the Cavs, the club's lineup was almost totally revamped. On the day before Christmas, Mitchell and Roger Phegley were traded to San Antonio for Reggie Johnson and Ron Brewer. Then just before the trading deadline, the Cavs swung a couple of major deals. Johnson was sent to Kansas City for Cliff Robinson, while Laimbeer and Carr were traded to Detroit for Paul Mokeski, Phil Hubbard, and two draft choices.

Brewer went on to enjoy the finest season of his career, averaging 18.8 points per game and leading the team in scoring. Robinson also had an outstanding season, finishing second on the club with a norm of 18.5 points per game along with a team-leading average of 9.0 rebounds per contest.

There were some bright spots during Daly's tenure as the Cavs coach, especially during one stretch in early February when the team won four out of five games. However, shortly after the trade for Robinson, Daly was replaced by Bill Musselman, who completed the season as the club's head coach.

The team finished the year by losing its last 19 games to wind up with a record of 15-67, which was identical to the Cavs' mark in 1970-71, the club's first year in the NBA. But there were some young, talented players on hand, such as Robinson, Brewer, Edwards (who tied his career high with an average of 16.7 points per game), and Huston, who added 10.3 points per game and finished eighth in the NBA in assists (7.6 per contest).

Season Thirteen — 1982-83

The months preceeding the 1982-83 season were like the quiet before the storm, highlighted by the signing of the club's top two draft choices, No. 1 pick John Bagley and second round pick David Magley. Bruce Flowers, who played in Italy for three seasons, also was signed as a free agent and during training camp, Steve Hayes was acquired from the Pistons for future considerations.

The days just before the start of the season, though, were filled with activity. On October 15th, Harry Weltman was named as Executive Vice President of Operations. Six days later, on October 21st, Bill Musselman, who finished the 1981-82 season as the club's head coach, resigned that position and was replaced by Tom Nissalke, while Don Delaney was named as the teams' Assistant Coach. Shortly thereafter, the coaching staff was completed with the addition of Gene Littles.

The Cavs opened the season with Richard Washington and James Silas on the injured list, and both would eventually be lost to the club for the entire year.

The Cavs dropped their first five games of the season, and entered December with a 2-13 record. But there were two major transactions that month that would improve the team's fortunes.

With James Edwards on the injured list, there was a hole at center, so Sam Lacey was signed as a free agent on December 4th. Lacey provided the Cavs with a defensive presence in the middle and emerged as a team leader. Eleven days later, on December 15th, the club's leading scorer of a year ago, Ron Brewer, was traded to the Golden State Warriors in exchange for World B. Free. It proved to be one of the best deals in the franchise's history.

Free provided the Cavs with consistent scoring night in and night out, and quickly became popular with Cleveland fans. His impact was immediate, and the club went 5-10 in January. Free scored 20 or more points in every game that month, breaking the club's record of 10 consecutive 20-point games, set by Austin Carr.

With Free and Cliff Robinson, who was enjoying a fine season himself, the Cavs had a strong 1-2 scoring punch and the club was shaped around their abilities. On January 14th, Scott Wedman was traded to Boston for Darren Tillis and the Celtics' first round pick in the 1983 draft, and on February 7th, Edwards was dealt to Phoenix for Jeff Cook and an exchange of the team's 1983 first round draft choices.

February proved to be the club's most successful month of the season. The Cavs put together a four-game winning streak and posted an overall 6-7 record for the month. Free and Robinson again provided the bulk of the scoring, while the offense was directed by point guard Geoff Huston.

Although the Cavs were not quite so successful the rest of the way, there were some sparkling individual performances, highlighted by Robinson's 40-point effort against Indiana on April 15th, the second-to-last game of the season. The Cavs closed out the year by winning three of their last four games to finish in fifth place in the Central Division with a record of 23-59.

Individually, Free averaged 23.9 points per game over the course of the season to finish seventh in the NBA in scoring, while Robinson, who scored at an 18.0 ppg clip, also grabbed 11.1 rebounds per game to rank seventh in the league and third among forwards in that category. Huston had another steady season, leading the club in assists and averaging 12.2 points per game, while Phil Hubbard, chipped in with 9.5 ppg.

The end of the season also marked the close of Ted Stepien's ownership of the Cavs. On April 7th, George and Gordon Gund, the co-owners of the Coliseum, announced that they had secured the option to purchase the Cavaliers, and on May 9th, after NBA owners awarded the Cavs bonus first round draft choices in 1983, '84, '85, and '86, the Gunds exercised that option and assumed ownership of the club.

One week later, Tom Nissalke was signed to a multi-year contract, and in subsequent months, Ed Badger was named as an assistant coach, George Karl was selected as the club's Director of Player Acquisition, Lonnie Shelton was acquired from the Seattle Super-Sonics, and Roy Hinson and Stewart Granger were selected as the team's two first-round draft picks.

Season Fourteen – 1983-84

Heading into the 1983-84 season under the new ownership of George and Gordon Gund, the Cavs revamped their lineup as well. On the eve of the college draft the Cavs sent a second round draft pick to the Seattle SuperSonics for Lonnie Shelton and then selected Roy Hinson and Stewart Granger in the first round, John Garriss in the second round, and Paul Thompson in the third round of the college draft. All four rookies would go on to earn places on the Cavs' roster.

The Cavs also attempted to sign free agent Calvin Natt, but his offer sheet was matched by the Portland Trail Blazers. The Cavs did unveil a new logo on August 2nd, along with new team uniforms, all based on a burnt orange, white, and royal blue color pattern.

The Cavs finally came to terms with free agent World B. Free just at the start of training camp, while Darren Tillis was traded to the Golden State Warriors in exchange for a second round draft pick.

Cleveland further bolstered their roster with the purchase of Ben Poquette from the Utah Jazz on October 19th and got down to the 12-man roster limit just before the start of the regular season by waiving veterans Richard Washington, Carl Nicks, Bobby Wilkerson, and Steve Hayes. Emphasizing stability, those would be the last roster moves the Cavs would make until early March.

The Cavs got off to an inconsistent start, going 5-12 through November, with an early highlight provided by Free, who scored 40 points (the most by a Cav all season) on November 4th to lead Cleveland to a 105-84 win over the Dallas Mavericks.

After dropping 12 straight road games, the Cavs finally ended that streak with a 101-95 win over the Bulls in Chicago on December 12th, and after winning seven straight home games from November 2nd through December 7th, they headed into the New Year with a record of 9-22.

The Cavs then went 4-8 in January and closed the month with a Cliff Robinson buzzer beater that defeated the Detroit Pistons 114-112 in overtime on January 31st. That would set the stage for even better things to come.

In February, the Cavs had one of their most successful months ever, going 9-5 (including an 8-1 mark at home), and up to that point only five times in the club's history had the Cavs won more games in a single month.

Beginning with a 119-108 win on February 8th over the Golden State Warriors, the Cavs won five straight games, defeating Seattle, Indiana, New Jersey and Phoenix, their longest winning streak since March of 1980. Later in the month, on February 23rd, in front of a national television audience (USA Cable) and 14,517 fans, the largest crowd for a Cavs game since March of 1981, Cleveland defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 116-109 in overtime. Coupled with an attendance of 10,105 against the Pacers five nights earlier, it marked the first time since the 1979-80 season that the Cavs had drawn back-to-back crowds at home in excess of 10,000 fans.

On February 25th, the Cavs closed to within three games of the final playoff berth in the Eastern Conference with a 94-83 win over the Washington Bullets, but that would be as close as the Cavs would come the rest of the way, as they dropped their next seven games. Nevertheless, Head Coach Tom Nissalke was in contention for the NBA Coach of the Month Award for February, ultimately finishing as the runner-up for that award behind Detroit's Chuck Daly.

The Cavs made their one roster change of the season, signing Geff Crompton to a contract on March 10th, 11 days after Ben Poquette was placed on the injured list for the rest of the season with a broken bone in his right wrist. The Cavs had their problems in March and April at one point losing 16 consecutive road games from February 21st through April 9th, setting a new club record before finally stopping that streak in the season finale with a 117-109 win at Washington on April 14th. While the Cavs did go 6-21 over their last 27 games of the season, the year did represent a positive development.

The Cavs utilized only 13 players during the year, a far cry from the previous three seasons, when they had a minimum of 18 players each year wear a Cavs jersey. In addition, their record of 28-54 tied the best mark the club had recorded over the previous three years and represented five-game improvement from 1982-83. Their fourth place finish in the Central Division was their highest final placing since they were fourth in 1978-79.

The Cavs' 23-18 record at the Coliseum was their best home mark since the 1979-80 season, but they were only 5-36 on the road. With a home attendance of 5,075, the Cavs had a 29.6% increase over the previous year's average, the third highest percent increase in the NBA.

Individually, Free finished 14th in the NBA in scoring and notched his 13,000th and 14,000th career points while averaging 22.3 points per game, the third best single season scoring average in Cav history. Cliff Robinson finished eighth in the league in rebounding (and second among forwards) with an average of 10.3 rebounds per contest, while Hinson finished sixth in the league in blocked shots with an average of 1.81 rejections per game and with 145 blocks set a Cav rookie mark for most rejections in a season. By playing in all 82 games (the only Cav to have done so), Thompson became only the second rookie in Cavs' history to play in all of the club's games in his initial season.

Season Fifteen — 1984-85

Before the start of the 1984-85 season, the Cleveland Cavaliers made some moves both on and off the court to prepare the club for the future. On May 25th, Head Coach Tom Nissalke was relieved of his responsibilities after two years at the club's helm, and he was replaced on July 26th by George Karl, who served as the Cavs' Director of Player Acquisition the previous season. At age 33, Karl became the youngest head coach in Cavs history and in the NBA. Following the resignation of Assistant Coach Ed Badger in July, the Cavs completed their front office changes by naming Morris McHone as an Assistant Coach and Barry Hecker as Director of Player Acquisition.

On draft day, June 19th, the Cavs traded their number one selection, center Tim McCormick along with Cliff Robinson and cash to the Washington Bullets in exchange for their first round selection, center Melvin Turpin. The Cavs then tabbed forward Ron Anderson as their second round choice. On August 8th, the Cavs acquired veteran guard Johnny Davis from the Atlanta Hawks in exchange for John Garriss and Stewart Granger, and on August 24th signed veteran free agent Kelly Tripucka to an offer sheet, however the Detroit Pistons matched the offer.

The Cavs got down to the 12-man roster limit before the start of the season by waiving Geff Crompton and by placing Lonnie Shelton and Paul Thompson on the injured list. In addition, the Cavs signed free agent Campy Russell to a contract but then waived him on November 5th when Thompson was activated.

The beginning of the 1984-85 season proved to be a little rougher than anticipated for the Cavs and Head Coach George Karl. The Cavs dropped their first nine decisions of the year before they finally recorded a win, defeating the Atlanta Hawks 102-99 in Atlanta on November 15th. The Cavs picked up their second win of the season vs. the Hawks at The Coliseum on November 25th by a 118-111 count, which was also the Cavs first home win of the year in six tries.

The Cavs dropped their first six decisions of December. In a 116-112 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers at The Coliseum on December 4th, Phil Hubbard set a Cavalier mark by making 15 shots in a row en route to a career-high 37 points.

When the Cavs were defeated 116-99 by the Hawks in New Orleans on December 12th, they reached their low point of the season with a 2-19 record. The Cavs then started to turn things around with a 102-97 win over the Knicks on December 15th, which marked the debut of Phil Hubbard as a starter.

The Cavs continued their progress by recording a 7-9 mark in January. World B. Free's 32 points helped the Cavs defeat the Chicago Bulls 101-98 on January 12th at The Coliseum in front of 18,074 fans, the Cavs' largest home crowd since March 27, 1981.

The month served as a showcase for Free, who was used off the bench until he was reinstated into the starting lineup on January 22nd against the Philadelphia 76ers. Free was named as the NBA Player of the Week for the week ending January 13th, when he averaged 28.3 points and 3.3 assists per game.

The Cavs finished with a 9-6 record in February, only the second time the Cavs compiled a winning record in a month since January of 1981. As a result of the club's success, Cav Head Coach George Karl was selected as the Hagger/NBA Coach of the Month for February, becoming the first Cav coach ever to receive that honor.

John Bagley scored a career-high 35 points at Washington in a 121-112 win on February 4th, then notched the second triple-double in Cavs history on February 6th in a 113-108 loss at Boston. Then on February 15th, the Cavs downed the Philadelphia 76ers 112-107 at The Spectrum, which broke the Cavs' 21-game losing streak in that building dating back to February 6, 1976.

The Cavs returned home to lose a 122-115 decision to the Houston Rockets on February 16th in front of 18,557 fans, despite 45 points by World B. Free, his highest point total since joining the Cavs, the most by a Cav this season, and the third highest single game point total in Cav history. Following that game, though, the Cavs turned around and beat the Sixers for the second time in 69 hours, on February 18th at The Coliseum by a 120-113 count.

March proved to be just as successful as February, as the Cavs posted an identical 9-6 record. In addition, the Cavs also put together two successive winning months for the first time since November and December of 1979.

The Cavs opened the month by winning three straight road games (at Portland, Golden State and LA Clippers), before they finally were stopped by the Los Angeles Lakers on March 9th. However, they went 5-1 on their six-game, 15-day road trip, and those five wins were the most victories the Cavs ever totalled on an individual road trip in the club's history. In addition, until their loss to the Lakers, the Cavs had assembled a seven-game road winning streak, a new club record.

On Friday, March 15th, in front of a sold-out house of 20,900 fans, the largest crowd to see a Cavs game since May 19, 1976, the Cavs were defeated by the Boston Celtics 119-96. The following night, the Cavs upended the Dallas Mavericks in Dallas in a 135-128 overtime decision, as the club notched their highest point total in a single game this season.

The Cavs longest winning streak of the season of six games was capped off with a dramatic 119-118 victory over the Detroit Pistons in Joe Louis Arena on April 5th. The Cavs trailed 118-117 when John Bagley made a circus layup with two seconds left on the clock to give the Cavs the victory.

The Cavs headed into their contest at The Coliseum against the New Jersey Nets on April 9th needing both a victory and a Washington Bullets win over the Hawks to clinch their first playoff berth in seven years. The Bullets obliged by defeating Atlanta, but things didn't look so good for the Cavs, who trailed the Nets by seven points with less than ten minutes remaining in the game. But the Cavs wouldn't be denied and outscored the Nets by a 30-9 margin over the last 9:28 to charge to a 114-100 playoff clinching victory. The entire team was called back onto the court for an encore by the fans following the game and champagne flowed freely in the locker room.

The Cavs entered their first NBA Playoff series since 1978 matched against the defending World Champion Boston Celtics in a best three-out-of-five games Eastern Conference first round series. The series opened at Boston Garden on April 18th, and Larry Bird's 40 points led the Celtics to a 126-123 win. The 123 points were the most the Cavs ever scored in a playoff game, but it wasn't enough as World B. Free's three-point field goal attempt at the buzzer fell short.

In Game Two, the Cavs dropped a 108-106 decision to the Celtics at Boston Garden in a game that was televised on CBS-TV, marking the Cavs' first appearance on CBS since November 21, 1979. The Celts once again were led by Larry Bird's 30 points as Free's last second 25-foot jumper just missed sending the game into overtime.

With the series shifted to The Coliseum, the Cavs gained a 105-98 win over the Celtics on April 23rd in front of a sold-out audience of 20,900 fans. Boston was without the services of Larry Bird, and behind World B. Free's 32 points, the Cavs snapped a 17-game losing streak to the Celtics.

Two days later, in front of another capacity crowd of 20,900 at The Coliseum, the Celtics closed out the series by defeating the Cavs 117-115. Bird returned to action and scored 34 points, negating a 30-point performance from Free. The Cavs held a 109-104 lead with 4:08 left in the game, but Bird scored six points from that point and the Celts held on when a flurry of Cav shots at the end fell short.

Season Sixteen – 1985-86

On draft day, June 18, the Cavs drafted Charles Oakley (ninth selection overall) and Calvin Duncan (30th selection overall). At the conclusion of the second round, the Cavs traded Oakley and Duncan to the Chicago Bulls in exchange for the Bulls' first round selection, Keith Lee (11th selection overall) and guard Ennis Whatley. The Cavs later selected forward John Williams with their second pick in the second round (45th pick overall).

The opening of training marked the signings of veteran free agents Mark West, Edgar Jones and Johnny Davis. Also, Roy Hinson was given a multi-year extension to his contract.

It did not take long for injuries to interfere with the Cavs' plans, as Lonnie Shelton injured his left knee in a collision with Johnny Davis on the first day of training camp. Shelton underwent arthroscopic surgery on October 1 and missed the first 20 games of the season.

Rookie Keith Lee was signed to a contract on October 4, but never was able to participate in training camp due to a severe pull of his right thigh. Lee and Shelton were placed on the injured list to start the season, and Lee went on to miss the first 23 games of the campaign.

After a brief holdout, veteran free agent John Bagley signed a new contract with the Cavs on October 15. However, on October 21, it was announced that the Cavs had withdrawn John Williams' player contract and subsequently he would sit out his entire rookie year.

The Cavs had a surprising start to the 1985-86 season as they proved to be one of the best road teams in the NBA through November. On November 5 at the Forum in Los Angeles, the Cavs ruined the home opener for the defending NBA Champion Lakers with a 129-111 upset victory sparked by Edgar Jones' 24 points and 12 rebounds. The Cavs wound up with a 4-2 record on their extended west coast journey, and only once before in the club's history had they won more games on a single road trip.

The Cavs finished November with two wins in their last three games, a 98-90 win over the Atlanta Hawks on November 24, behind 27 points from Melvin Turpin, and a 119-90 victory at The Coliseum on November 30, in a game that saw the club post their largest margin of victory of the season, and World B. Free score his 16,000th career NBA point.

The team's best weekend of the season began on Friday, December 13, as the Cavs defeated the Milwaukee Bucks 128-124 at the Mecca behind World B. Free's 39 points. The following night at The Coliseum, Free's 22 points led the Cavs to a 109-99 victory over the Boston Celtics, breaking Boston's 16-game regular season winning streak over the Cavs.

Following a home loss to the Lakers on December 20 in front of the Cavs' second sellout crowd of the year, the Cavs defeated the Dallas Mavericks 119-105. Cleveland broke a seven-game losing streak at the Silverdome with a 119-105 win over the Pistons on December 27. The Cavs finished the month with two consecutive losses at home, a heartbreaking 114-112 overtime decision to the Milwaukee Bucks on December 28, despite a triple-double by John Bagley, and a 121-117 defeat to the Chicago Bulls on December 30.

Starting forward Phil Hubbard was placed on the injured list for the remainder of the season on January 10, after undergoing surgery to repair a torn ligament in his right wrist.

Roy Hinson scored a career-high 39 points vs. the Houston Rockets at the Summit on January 28. Hinson was the first member of the Cavs to participate in the Slam Dunk competition during All-Star weekend in Dallas.

The Cavs acquired veteran guard Eddie Johnson from the Atlanta Hawks in exchange for guard Johnny Davis at the All-Star break. The Cavs played .500 basketball in February following the All-Star break, including a stretch where the Cavs won four out of five games. World B. Free led the Cavs to consecutive wins over the Indiana Pacers on February 11 and the New Jersey Nets on February 13, combining for 55 points.

After opening the month of March with a 2-6 record, the Cavs announced that Gene Littles would replace George Karl as head coach for the remainder of the season. Littles recorded his first win as an NBA head coach on March 22 in a pivotal game vs. the Chicago Bulls at The Coliseum, 123-97, as World B. Free netted 38 points, as the Cavs led the Bulls by 2½ games for the final playoff position in the Eastern Conference.

The Cavs ended March with a pair of road victories. At Brendan Byrne Arena on March 26, Edgar Jones tipped in a rebound with four seconds left to give the Cavs their first win ever at the Meadowlands, 110-108. Three nights later, the Cavs defeated the Atlanta Hawks at the Omni, as World B. Free scored a season-high 43 points, the most points scored by a Cav during the season. The win gave the Cavs 13 road wins on the year, their fifth-best road record in the franchise's 16-year history.

The Cavs maintained a 2½-game advantage over the Chicago Bulls for the eighth and final playoff spot in the East, going into the last month of the season. However, the Cavs would have to play their remaining eight games against opponents with a combined winning percentage of .632.

The Cavs began April with a 123-105 defeat against the Boston Celtics at The Coliseum despite 28 points from World B. Free. The Cavs went on to drop their next six decisions. After a 117-104 loss at Boston on April 11, the Cavs were eliminated from their goal of reaching the NBA Playoffs for the second consecutive season.

Season Seventeen — 1986-87

On June 19, 1986, Wayne Embry was named the Cavs Vice President and General Manager, after serving as Vice President and Basketball Consultant of the Indiana Pacers during the 1985-86 season. Embry's appointment culminated what was "probably the most pivotal week in franchise history," according to Cavs Co-Chairman Gordon Gund. The week began when John Williams was found innocent in the Tulane case on June 16, the eve of the NBA college draft. On the morning of the draft, it was announced that the Cavs had acquired the number one pick in the NBA draft from the Philadelphia 76ers, in exchange for Roy Hinson and other considerations. With the first selection, the Cavs chose Brad Daugherty, a 7-foot center from North Carolina. The Cavs also selected Ron Harper, a 6-6 guard from Miami, Ohio with the eighth pick, and acquired the draft rights of Georgia Tech's Mark Price.

On July 9, Lenny Wilkens was named the Cavs' tenth head coach in the franchise's 17-year history. Wilkens, a 13-year NBA coaching veteran, returned to the Cavs after serving as the general manager of the Seattle SuperSonics. One week later, Wilkens named Dick Helm and Brian Winters as his assistant coaches. Gary Fitzsimmons was named Director of Player Personnel to round out the basketball staff.

The Cavs started the season with a 113-106 home victory over the Washington Bullets as four Cavs scored 20+ points, including Mark West (career-high 27 points), Ron Harper (25), John Williams (22), and John Bagley (21). Williams was named the NBA Player of the Week for the period ending November 30, as he combined for 46 points in Cavs wins over Portland and New York.

The month of December was the Cavs' best month of the season. The Cavs finished 8-7, including a 7-3 mark at The Coliseum. Guard Ron Harper was named the NBA Rookie of the Month for December, when he averaged 22.9 points, 5.1 rebounds and 4.2 assists. Rookie center Brad Daugherty had the fourth triple-double in Cavs history on December 19 vs. Utah with 19 points, 10 rebounds and 11 assists. On December 8, the Cavs traded guard Dirk Minniefield to the Houston Rockets for a 1989 draft choice. On December 30, it was announced that the Cavs would forgo their right of first refusal on the contract of World B. Free in exchange for a 1990 second round draft choice from the Philadelphia 76ers.

For the second straight month, Ron Harper was named the NBA Rookie of the Month. Harper averaged 22.4 ppg in January and remained the league's leading rookie scorer. The highlight in January was the Cavs 114-84 win over the Chicago Bulls at The Coliseum on January 24 in front of 20,103 fans — the Cavs largest crowd of the season. The Cavs backcourt was hit by injuries as starting point guard John Bagley (sprained ankle) and back-up Mark Price (appendicitis) spent time on the injured list. The Cavs filled the roster spots by signing free agents Craig Ehlo and Tyrone Corbin.

Ron Harper represented the Cavs at All-Star Weekend in Seattle, and finished fifth in the Slam Dunk Competition. Harper scored a career-high 40 points, the most scored by a Cav all season, at Boston on February 4. He also had a career-high 16 rebounds vs. New York on February 10. Harper became the first of three Cav rookies (along with Brad Daugherty and John Williams) to surpass John Johnson's previous record of 1,110 points scored in a season by a Cavs rookie. Daugherty scored a season-high 33 points vs. Sacramento on February 18 on 10-14 FG and 13-16 FT with 12 rebounds and 8 assists.

Both John Bagley and Mark Price returned to the active roster in February. The Cavs placed Scooter McCray on waivers on February 10 to make way for Price's return. Then, on February 15, Ben Poquette was traded to the Chicago Bulls for a future second round draft choice to open a roster spot for Bagley. The Cavs won four of their last seven games in February, including a 119-117 victory at Denver on February 28, which snapped a string of 15 straight road losses.

Brad Daugherty won March's NBA Rookie of the Month Award, averaging 18.3 points, 7.5 rebounds and 4.6 assists per game on .566 shooting from the floor. Head Coach Lenny Wilkens earned his 580th NBA coaching win on March 27 in the Cavs 116-113 win over Milwaukee, moving him into eighth place on the All-Time Winningest NBA Coaches List ahead of John MacLeod. Ron Harper set a pair of Cavs records in March. Harper topped Fouts Walker's mark of 176 steals in a single season, which was set in 1977-78. He also set a new club single-game record with 10 steals vs. Philadelphia on March 10.

On March 31, Julius Erving made his final Coliseum appearance, as he retired after 16 seasons of professional basketball. In front of 17,641 fans, who braved Cleveland's worst snowstorm in 30 years to pay tribute to Dr. J., the Sixers won 116-105 as Erving scored 17 points in 30 minutes of action.

The Cavs closed out the season on a positive note, winning four of their last six games, including a resounding 107-83 defeat of the Boston Celtics before 19,007 at The Coliseum on April 7. The 24-point margin of victory was the Cavs largest win over Boston since March 29, 1977, when the Cavs defeated the Celtics by 28 points, 110-82. The 31 wins on the season was two more than in 1985-86. The Cavs won 14 of their last 20 home games to finish with 25 home wins, the most since 1979-80 (28), and nine more home victories than in 1985-86.

The Cavs were led in scoring by three rookies — Ron Harper (22.9 ppg), Brad Daugherty (15.7 ppg) and John Williams (14.6 ppg). The last time three NBA rookies topped their team in scoring was in 1955-56, when the Rochester Royals were led by Maurice Stokes, Jack Twyman, and Ed Fleming. Harper was tops among all NBA rookies in scoring. He finished 16th in the NBA in scoring and 4th in steals (2.55 spg). His 1,874 points is the second largest scoring season in Cavs history. Harper led the Cavs in scoring, games played, minutes, steals and assists.

Daugherty led the Cavs in rebounding with 8.1 rpg. He was second on the team in scoring and led the Cavs starters in field goal percentage at .538, which was 15th in the league. He led all NBA centers in assists with 3.8 apg. Williams was 11th in the NBA in blocked shots with 2.09 bpg. His 167 blocks was the third largest blocked shot total for a Cav in a single season. On May 6th, Harper, Daugherty, and Williams were named to the NBA All-Rookie Team, as chosen by the NBA's head coaches. Both Harper and Daugherty were unanimous selections.

Season Eighteen — 1987-88

The Cavs began the season with a 114-108 win at New Jersey on opening night, however the team suffered its biggest loss of the season on the next night in Atlanta when Ron Harper severely sprained his left ankle, keeping him out of action until late December. The Cavs injury situation was compounded as John Williams missed the first five games of the season with a sore left foot. The Cavs finished November with a 3-8 record, and handed the Boston Celtics a 109-88 loss on November 18 before a TBS national audience.

The Cavs were 9-7 during December, their best month since March, 1985 when they were 9-5. The Cavs won their first five home games of the month to record their longest home winning streak since March, 1985. The biggest win of the month came on December 5, as Cleveland defeated the World Champion Los Angeles Lakers 97-95 on a last second tip-in by Tyrone Corbin.

In January, the Cavs won seven of their eight home games, and went 9-6 on the month. It was the first time since March-April, 1985 that the Cavs put together back-to-back winning months. In December and January, the Cavs posted a 13-3 mark at The Coliseum, and showed improvement on the road with back-to-back victories at San Antonio and Houston. Cavs Head Coach Lenny Wilkens gained his 800th NBA victory on January 12, as the Cavs defeated New York 119-111 at The Coliseum. In front of a sellout crowd of 20,900 at The Coliseum, the Cavs downed the Boston Celtics 119-100 on January 23, the Cavs' fourth straight home win over the Eastern Conference Champions.

The Cavs continued their fine play at The Coliseum during February, posting a 5-1 home record. The biggest win of the month came on February 21 vs. Chicago as the Cavs prevailed 113-111, despite Michael Jordan's 46 points. Mark Price finished tied for fifth in the Long Distance Shootout at All-Star Weekend in Chicago. Brad Daugherty became the Cavs' first representative in the All-Star game since Mike Mitchell in 1981, and was also the youngest participant in this year's mid-season classic. Daugherty scored 12 points on 6-7 FG in 15 minutes. On February 7 at Philadelphia, Phil Hubbard scored 9 points giving him 7,000 career NBA points.

Just prior to the NBA trading deadline on February 25, the Cavs acquired forwards Larry Nance and Mike Sanders from the Phoenix Suns, along with Detroit's first round draft choice in 1988, in exchange for guard Kevin Johnson, forward Tyrone Corbin and center Mark West, as well as the Cavs' first and second round picks in 1988 and the L.A. Lakers' second round pick in 1989.

March was a month of transition for the Cavs after the trade with the Suns. The Cavs won four of their six home games in March, but dropped seven of their eight road contests. The Cavs began the month with wins in two of their first four games, then lost seven of their next eight contests. Mike Sanders was inserted into the Cavs starting line-up on March 26 at Atlanta, joining Larry Nance in the Cavs frontcourt, while John Williams became the Cavs' sixth man. The Cavs closed out the month with two straight wins, including a road win at Washington, their ninth road victory of the year.

Head Coach Lenny Wilkens was selected as the NBA Coach of the Month for April, as the Cavs finished with a 9-2 mark, including a 7-0 home record. The Cavs finished the season with eight straight home wins, their longest home winning streak since the 1979-80 season. Brad Daugherty scored a career-high 44 points vs. Boston on April 15, the fourth highest scoring game in Cavs history. The Cavs clinched their first playoff berth in three seasons on April 18, with a 112-107 victory over Indiana.

The Cavs ended with their best home record in team history with a 29-12 record. The Cavs finished 2nd in the NBA in team defense, yielding an average of 103.7 ppg. The Cavs also were 2nd in the NBA in 3-point field goal percentage at .378, and were 3rd in the NBA in blocked shots with 526.

The Cavs made their fifth playoff appearance in their 18-year history. The Cavs' first round opponent was the Chicago Bulls in a best-of-five series. The Bulls won Game 1 at the Chicago Stadium on April 28, 104-93. Michael Jordan led all scorers with 50 points, while Craig Ehlo led the Cavs with 21 points.

In Game 2 at Chicago on May 1, the Cavs dropped a 106-101 decision to the Bulls. Michael Jordan became the first player to score back-to-back 50-point games in NBA Playoff history, scoring 55 points. The Cavs were paced by Larry Nance's 27 points and Brad Daugherty's 21 points and 13 boards.

The series moved to Cleveland for Game 3 on May 3, and the Cavs gained a 110-102 win as Mark Price led the Cavs with 31 points, including 20 first half points. John Williams added 20 points off the bench, while Michael Jordan topped the Bulls with 38 points.

At The Coliseum on May 5, the Cavs knotted the series at 2-2 with a 97-91 victory. All five Cavs starters scored in double figures, led by Ron Harper's 30 points. Once again, Michael Jordan topped the Bulls with 44 points. They were the Cavs' first back-to-back playoff wins since May 11-14, 1976.

The deciding fifth game was held before a national TV audience on CBS on May 8 at Chicago. For the fifth straight game, the Cavs jumped out quickly, leading 35-23 after the first quarter. However, Michael Jordan took over in the 2nd half, scoring 21 of his game-high 39 points, en route to a new NBA Playoff record for scoring in a five-game series (45.2 ppg), as the Bulls triumphed 107-101.

Season Nineteen — 1988-89

The Cleveland Cavaliers raced through November with their best start in 11 seasons with an 8-3 record. After finishing 8-0 during the pre-season, the Cavs defeated the expansion Charlotte Hornets on opening night 133-93, for the Cavs second largest margin of victory in team history. On November 22 at Hartford, the Cavs defeated the Boston Celtics 114-102 for the Cavs first road win over the Celtics in 27 games.

The Cavs owned the NBA's best record in the NBA from December 16 - March 13. They also won a franchise record 11 straight games from December 15 - January 7, which was also the longest winning streak in the NBA during the season. The Cavs won back-to-back games vs. Central Division rivals Detroit and Atlanta (Dec. 15-17) by a combined 47 points. The Cavs beat the Celtics at the Boston Garden for the first time since October 13, 1978, posting a 115-114 win on December 21.

The Cavs tied an NBA record with 21 blocked shots in the Cavs 104-96 win vs. the New York Knicks on January 7. Also, Larry Nance set a Cavs team record with 11 blocked shots vs. the Knicks. The Cavs set a franchise record for most points in a regulation game when they defeated the Golden State Warriors 142-109 on January 23.

Lenny Wilkens coached the Eastern Conference All-Stars in Houston on February 12, marking his third All-Star coaching stint. Brad Daugherty, Larry Nance and Mark Price were selected by the Eastern Conference coaches to participate in the mid-season classic.

The Cavs won a team record 21 straight home games at The Coliseum, while they were on their way to posting a 37-4 home mark, tying the Detroit Pistons for the best home record in the NBA. The Cavs won their 50th game of the season on March 28 vs. Dallas, establishing a franchise record for most wins in a season.

The Cavs clinched a playoff berth on March 22, the earliest date in franchise history, but finished six games behind the Detroit Pistons in the Central Division. The Cavs finished with a 57-25 record, the best season in the team's 19-year history, tying the L.A. Lakers for the second best record in the league. The Cavs became the 8th team in NBA history to improve their victory totals by more than 10 games in back-to-back seasons.

The Cavs were 20-21 on the road (3rd best in the NBA), which tied the Cavs team record for road wins in a season (1975-76). The Cavs led the NBA in field goal percentage (.502), a Cavs franchise season-high. The Cavs set a new home attendance mark, with an average attendance of 17,827, the fifth best home attendance figure in the NBA.

The Cavs were 3rd in the NBA in defense, allowing an average of 101.2 ppg, and they were 2nd in point differential (+7.6 ppg). The Cavs made their second straight appearance in the NBA Playoffs, and their sixth playoff appearance in team history. For the second straight year, the Cavs faced the Chicago Bulls in the best three-of-five series in the first round of the playoffs.

In Game 1 at The Coliseum, the Bulls erased the Cavs home court advantage with a 95-88 win behind Michael Jordan's 31 points and 11 assists. The Cavs evened the series at 1-1, as Ron Harper led all scorers with 31 points.

The series moved to Chicago for Game 3, and the Bulls responded with a 101-94 victory as Michael Jordan scored 30 of his 44 points in the second half. However, the Cavs forced a fifth game, by downing the Bulls in an exciting 108-105 overtime game. Brad Daugherty converted on a pair of free throws with 4 seconds to go in regulation and he added a Cavs playoff record 17 rebounds.

In Game 5 on May 7 at The Coliseum, the Cavs season came to an abrupt ending. Michael Jordan, who scored a game-high 44 points, connected on a 16-foot jumper at the buzzer, giving the Bulls a 101-100 win. Craig Ehlo led the Cavs with 24 points, including a lay-up with 3 seconds remaining, which gave the Cavs a short-lived one-point lead.

On May 9, Cavs Head Coach Lenny Wilkens was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts, along with K.C. Jones and Pop Gates.

Season Twenty — 1989-90

Despite several key injuries, the Cleveland Cavaliers managed to post a 6-7 record during November. All-Stars Brad Daugherty (surgery on right foot) and Larry Nance (surgery on left ankle) sat out the first month of the season on the injured list. Nance missed the season's first 17 games while Daugherty missed the first 41 games. The Cavs opened the season with four straight losses, before winning five in a row. Mark Price missed eight of the team's first 15 games with a sprained right foot.

The Cavs connected on a team record eight 3-pointers in a 129-104 victory over Golden State on November 15. On November 16, the Cavs traded Ron Harper along with three future draft choices to the Los Angeles Clippers in exchange for the rights to Danny Ferry and Reggie Williams. Craig Ehlo scored a career-high 31 points in the Cavs 131-125 overtime win over Atlanta on November 17.

Larry Nance returned to the Cavs line-up on December 9 at Sacramento. The Cavs won their first four games after Nance's return, including a dramatic overtime victory in Utah on December 11 on Craig Ehlo's two 3-pointers in the final 4.3 seconds of overtime. The Cavs established a new team record with nine 3's against the Jazz. Chris Dudley grabbed a Cavs season-high 17 rebounds at Utah, including a team-record 11 offensive rebounds.

The Cavs, 8-7 in January, ended their first winning month of the season with three straight road victories. January 30 marked the return of Brad Daugherty into the Cavs lineup.

At Orlando on January 6, Steve Kerr was 5-5 on 3's, scoring all of his 19 points in the 4th quarter, a Cavs season-high for points in a quarter. Kerr connected on the second 4-point play in Cavs history against Philadelphia January 12. The Cavs set another team record as they made 10 3-pointers on a team record 22 attempts on January 15 vs. San Antonio. Mark Price had his first career triple-double (25 points, 12 assists and 11 rebounds) against the Spurs on January 15. Price also had six 3-pointers in the game tying a Cavs team record.

Head Coach Lenny Wilkens became the sixth NBA coach to win 700 games when the Cavs defeated the Minnesota Timberwolves 85-84 on January 26.

February was a busy month for the Cavs as Derrick Chievous was acquired from Houston, Chris Dudley was traded to New Jersey, Randolph Keys was traded to Charlotte and Reggie Williams was placed on waivers.

Against Indiana on February 14, Price scored a Cavs season-high 37 points, as the Cavs tied their team record with 10 three-pointers. The Cavs had their largest margin of victory of the season over Orlando (123-96 on February 23).

Price's streak of games with a successful 3-pointer ended at 34 on 2/19 vs. Dallas. It was the second longest streak in NBA history behind Michael Adams' 79 straight games.

After beginning March with five straight road losses, the Cavs finished the month strong by winning 8 of the final 11 games, including a 5-1 record at home.

Winston Bennett was inserted into the starting line-up at small forward on March 11 and the Cavs went 8-3 the remainder of the month.

The Cavs entered the final month of the season 1/2-game out of the playoff race behind the Atlanta Hawks. Key victories over the Hawks, Indiana, Detroit, Washington and Milwaukee propelled the Cavs into the playoffs. The Cavs clinched a spot in the playoffs with a victory April 20 against Orlando. The Cavs finished the regular season winning a season-high six straight games and 17 of the final 23 games (including 13 of the final 15 home games).

John Williams was the only Cav to play in all 82 regular season games. On April 8th, Williams scored a career-high 33 points vs. Detroit in a nationally televised game.

Season Twenty-One — 1990-91

The Cavs started the season with a 6-3 mark and were tied for first place in the Central Division with the defending World Champion Detroit Pistons. However, injuries would play a major role the remainder of the season. John "Hot Rod" Williams sprained his left foot versus the Milwaukee Bucks on November 16, forcing him to miss the next 37 games. Then on November 30 in Atlanta, Mark Price tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee, forcing him to miss the remainder of the season. At the time of the injury, the Cavs were 9-7, and Price was the NBA league leader in FT% (.952) and he was among the NBA leaders in assists (10.4 apg) and steals (2.63 spg).

After the injuries to Price, Williams and Winston Bennett (strained back), the Cavaliers struggled through the month of December, finishing 2-11. Price underwent surgery at the Cleveland Clinic on December 4 to repair the torn anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee. The Cavs two wins during the month were at home versus the Denver Nuggets and the Los Angeles Lakers. The Cavs came back from a 20-point deficit against the Nuggets on December 4, to pull out a 121-117 win as Darnell Valentine, who was signed by the Cavs as a free agent on December 3, played his first NBA game in over a season, and triggered the Cavs comeback with 13 points. The Cavs defeated the Lakers 84-74 on December 19, as Brad Daugherty and Larry Nance combined for 49 points, 30 rebounds, 8 assists, and 5 blocked shots. The 74 points scored by the Lakers was the lowest output by a Lakers squad since they moved to Los Angeles in 1960. The Cavs also tied a franchise record by holding their opponent to 74 points.

The Cavs snapped an 11-game losing streak on January 16 versus the Miami Heat with a 108-94 win behind Brad Daugherty's 22 points and 14 rebounds. The Cavs recorded their largest offensive output of the season with a 125-106 win over the Charlotte Hornets on January 29. In the second quarter against the Hornets, the Cavs shot a blistering 17-18 from the floor (.944). The Cavs signed free agent forward Henry James to the first of two 10-day contracts on December 31. James was then signed for the remainder of the season on January 18. James made an immediate impact when he put together back-to-back 20+ point performances at Chicago (January 5) and at Utah (January 8).

The Cavs rallied to win 5 of the last 9 games during February, including a 106-103 win over the Detroit Pistons at The Coliseum on February 26. The Cavs activated John Williams from the injured list on February 6, after he missed 37 straight games with a sprained left foot. Brad Daugherty played in his third NBA All-Star Game, becoming the first Cavalier to be named to three All-Star teams, scoring 8 points with 5 rebounds in 12 minutes at Charlotte on February 10.

The Cavs 108-82 win over New Jersey on March 23, was their largest margin of victory during the season. Brad Daugherty had the Cavs first 20+ rebound night in seven seasons against Sacramento on March 8, as he hauled down 24 rebounds. Daugherty also grabbed an NBA season-high 20 defensive rebounds vs. the Kings. Three members of the Cavs scored their career-highs during March: John Morton (21 points in the overtime win at Seattle on March 5), Gerald Paddio (24 points), and Winston Bennett (23 points).

The Cavs finished with their best month of the season posting an 8-3 mark in April, winning 6 out of the 7 home games, including the last four games of the season. The Cavs defeated the defending World Champion Pistons 94-90 on April 10, snapping a 6-game losing streak at the Palace. Brad Daugherty was one of four NBA players to average 20+ ppg and 10+ rpg during the season, and he became the first Cavalier to average 20+ ppg and 10+ rpg in a single season. Daugherty also set Cavaliers single season marks for free throws attempted (579) and free throws made (435). The Cavs ended the season with 241 player games lost to injury, as Craig Ehlo was the only Cavalier to play in all 82 contests.

Did You Know...

The Cavaliers are not the first Cleveland franchise in the National Basketball Association. The Cleveland Rebels were a charter member of the NBA in the league's first season, 1946-47. The Rebels finished third in the Western Division with a 30-30 record, eight and a half games behind the first place Chicago Stags, who went on to lose the championship series to the Philadelphia Warriors in five games.

Dutch Dehnert began the '46-47 season as the Rebel's coach, but after compiling a 17-20 record, Dehnert was replaced by Roy Clifford, who led the Rebels to thirteen victories in their final 23 games to gain a playoff berth.

After defeating the New York Knickerbockers 77-51 at Cleveland in the first game of a best-of-three playoff series, the Rebels dropped consecutive games in New York by 86-74 and 93-71 scores — the final games in the short-lived history of the franchise.

Some Very Big Players Are Setting Their Sights A Little Lower

Caring Program
For Children

This season, the Cavaliers are shooting for more than the NBA title.

And they're bringing a whole new meaning to teamwork, too. For each free throw the Cavs make, a donation will be made to the Caring Program for Children, to help Ohio's needy kids receive health care.

Community Mutual developed the program. And, as with all donations, Community Mutual matches each dollar.

Sure, the Cavs will still have their eyes on the hoop. But this year, they're setting their sights on helping the future of Ohio.

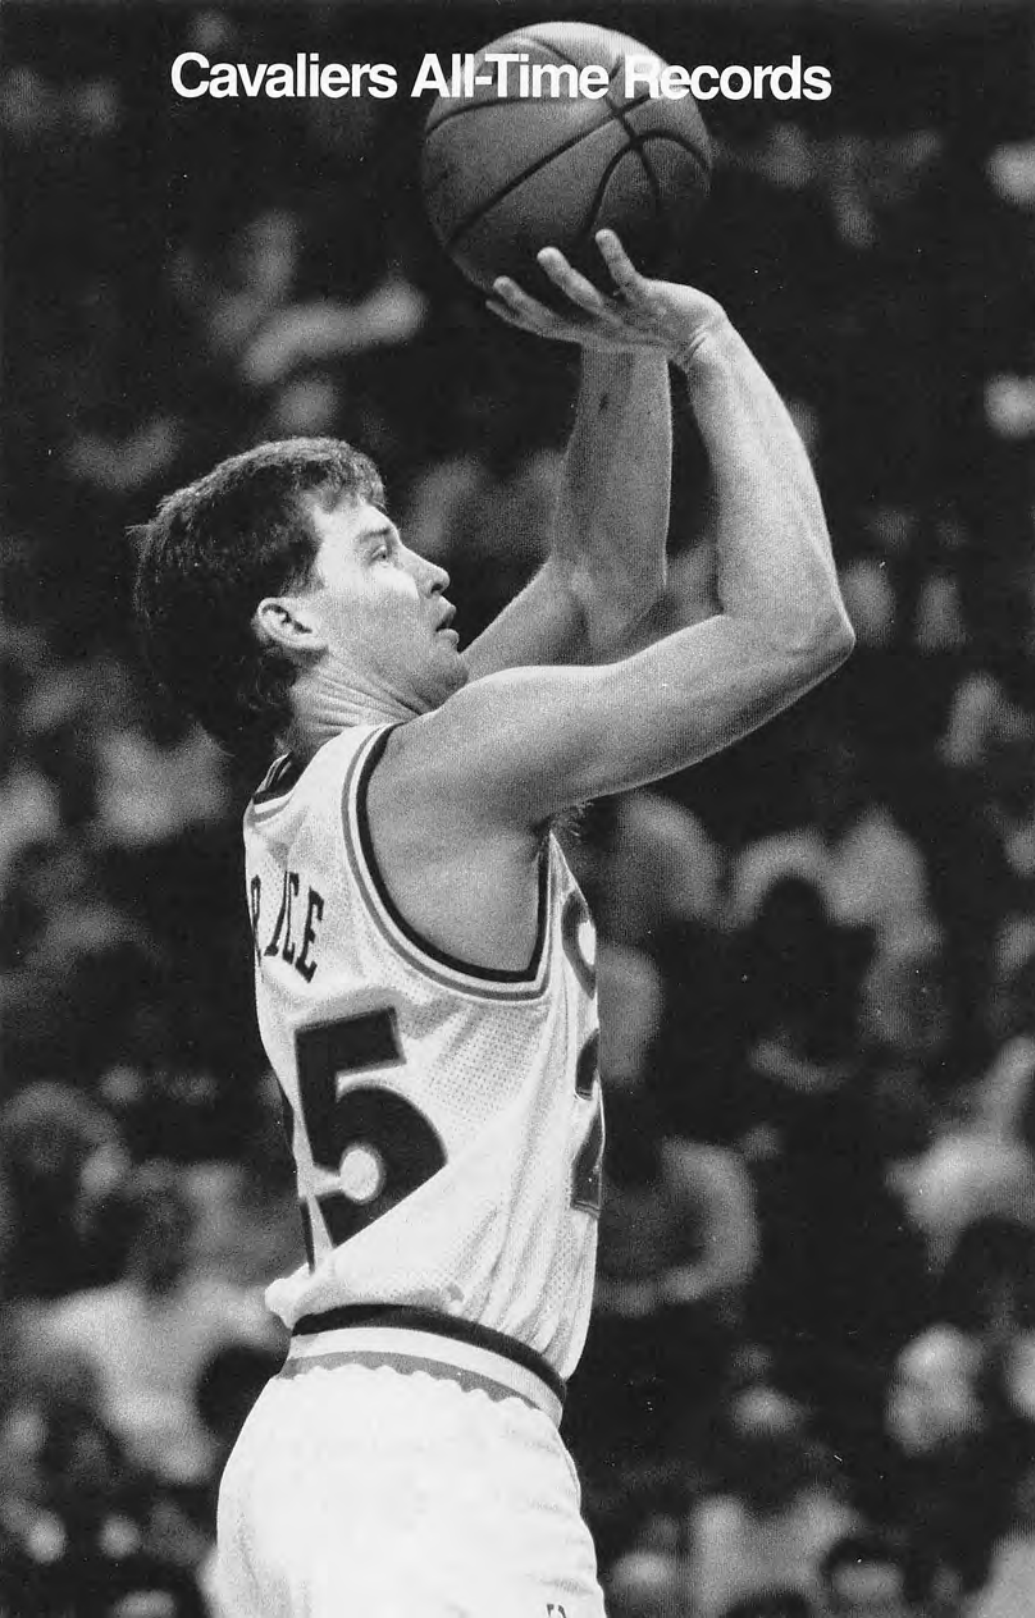

If you'd like to make a donation, just call 1-800-548-KIDS. Because, when it comes to their health, some 100,000 kids are looking up to you.

NBA and CAVS Community Involvement

The NBA, its teams and players share a commitment to supporting and improving the quality of life in their communities. On a national level, the NBA is involved in numerous public service initiatives.

Since 1989, the NBA and the National Basketball Players Association have worked to draw attention to this country's alarming drop-out statistics through the national NBA Stay in School program. Created to urge students to graduate from high school, the Stay in School program uses the popularity and visibility of NBA players and coaches to encourage young people to develop self-esteem, set goals, and dedicate themselves to learning.

The Cleveland Cavaliers have been involved in the Stay in School program throughout Northeastern Ohio. Once again, Cavs players will visit several Cleveland Public Schools at the elementary, intermediate and high school levels. For the 4th straight year, the Cavs will host a practice session on the main floor of The Coliseum, where 4,000 to 5,000 youngsters in grades 4-6 will attend. Tickets and transportation will be provided to students who demonstrate improvement in Attitude, Achievement, and Attendance. Last year, the Cavs produced a Stay in School video in conjunction with teachers and students from the Cleveland Public Schools.

Through public service announcements on TV and radio and other awareness-building projects, the NBA and its players also support the work of the Special Olympics, CARE, the National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Operation Prom/Graduation, a program that urges high school students to celebrate an alcohol-free prom and graduation season. The NBA also produces and airs PSAs saluting the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and celebrating Black History Month each February. During the 1991-92 season, the wives of NBA players and coaches developed a national program to highlight the importance of breast cancer screening for women.

The Cavs also are involved in the NBA Scholarship program, Smucker's Bread-N-Jam Scholarships, Shoes for Kids, Hoop-It-Up, Cavs Smucker's Kiwanis Runners' Challenge, the Marymount-Cavs RP Golf Classic which benefits the RP Foundation Fighting Blindness, the Cavs McDonald's Camp Network, Midnight Basketball in conjunction with the Cleveland Recreation Department, and various other programs and public service announcements.

The Coliseum

"No arena was more beautiful than The Coliseum, a magnificent structure in Richfield, Ohio..."

—Sports Illustrated, May 28, 1979

The Coliseum, one of the most elaborate and glamorous sports and entertainment facilities in the country, has served as the home court for the Cavs since its 1974 opening.

Located midway between Cleveland and Akron, The Coliseum serves a market of over five million people within a 50-mile radius. Owned by George and Gordon Gund, the owners of the Cavs, as well as the San Jose Sharks in the National Hockey League, The Coliseum remains one of the few privately owned arenas in the country.

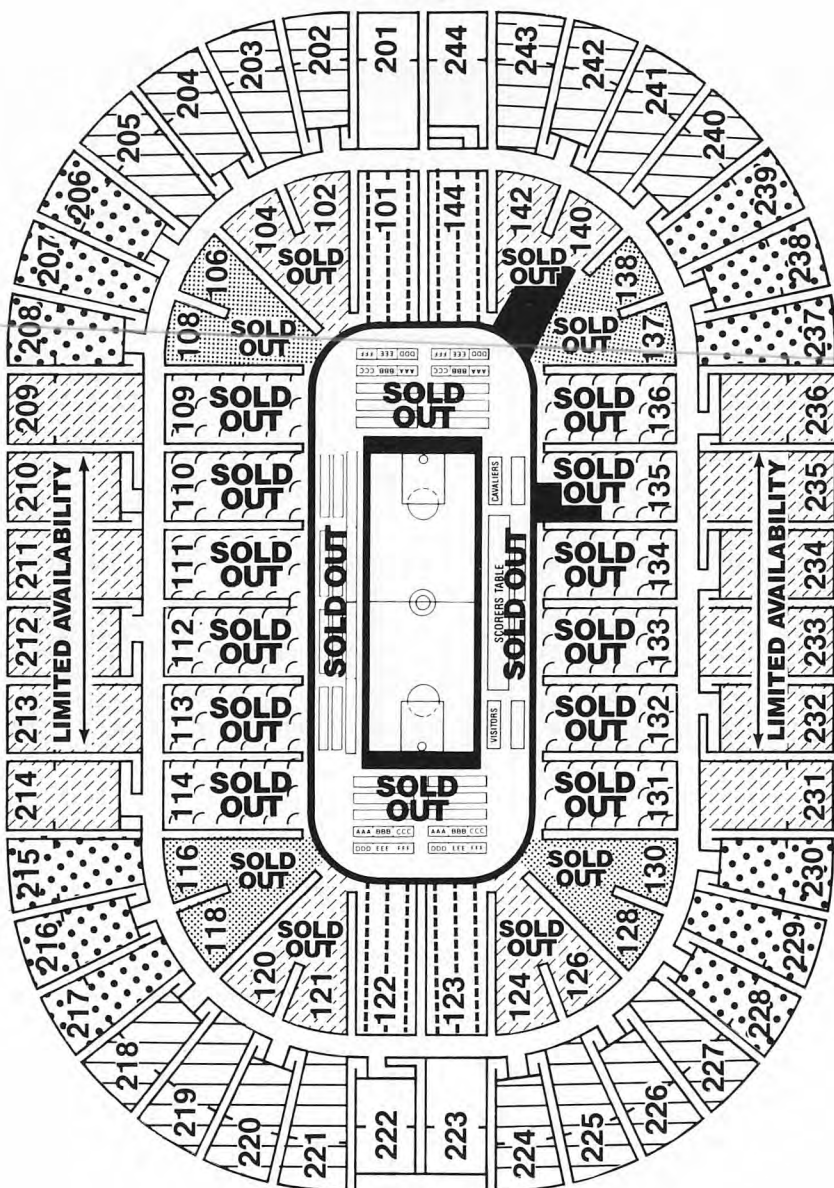

Opened on October 26, 1974, The Coliseum houses its own regulation-sized basketball court (which the Cavs use as their training and practice site), along with a full-sized tennis court and health club. The Coliseum was one of the first facilities in the country to be built with private loge boxes and it also features two large telcreens at opposite sides of the court as well as a state of the art multi-million dollar scoreboard. The Coliseum contains 92 luxurious private loges ringing its upper two levels as well as banquet facilities, saunas, cocktail lounges, and two popular restaurants operated by the well-known Taverne of Richfield.

The Coliseum is also the home of the Arena Football League's Cleveland Thunderbolts and the International Hockey League's Cleveland Lumberjacks. The Coliseum is the host to over 200 events a year, including professional boxing and wrestling, tennis, track and field, rodeos, circuses, ice shows, concerts, and other events and exhibitions of all types.
